

Meany To Stay On Pay Board, Won't Cooperate With 'Unfair' Decisions

MIAMI BEACH (AP) — Labor chief George Meany won AFL-CIO approval Thursday to stay on the Pay Board but to refuse to cooperate with wage control decisions he considers unfair. At the same time Meany said he was "delighted" at a congressional proposal to order retroactive payment of most frozen wage hikes.

"If the President doesn't like the terms we laid down, he can kick us off," Meany told 1,000

AFL-CIO delegates who approved his course to keep labor members on the Pay Board as long as they held "a reasonable hope" to win their wage demands.

Nixon will address the labor convention Friday and he is expected to defend his economic policies and ask labor's support. Meany said he was "delighted" at a Senate Banking Committee proposal that would instruct Nixon to permit payment of most of the hundred of millions of dollars in wage hikes held up during the recent 90-day wage-price freeze.

The committee also voted to extend the President's authority to control wages and prices for an additional year beyond next April 30.

The Pay Board's ruling against most retroactive pay involving some six million workers in thousands of labor contracts is a chief cause of labor's bitter quarrel with new wage controls. Labor was outvoted 10 to 5 by the 15-member board.

"The wage control mechanism established by the President of the United States is being used as a device to destroy the basic American concept of free collective bargaining," the convention resolution said.

"The American labor movement will not permit itself to become the scapegoat for the administration policies which have brought this nation to the brink of economic disaster," it said.

Earlier, Meany recounted the experience of the five labor members of the 15-man Pay Board, in which he said industry and public members offered "under-the-table" deals to win cooperation. After failing in that, he said, the panel tried to goad the labor members into quitting the board and blame them if wage controls fail.

Meany said if he and other labor members finally decide there is no hope of winning payment of all retroactive and future raises, existing contracts, and other labor demands, "We'll get the hell off the board."

The resolution urged all the AFL-CIO's 117 unions to "take every lawful action at their command to insure that their contracts are honored," reportedly including lawsuits and boycotts against companies that refuse payment of wages due.

"As one of its first acts the Pay Board—by a 10-5 vote, with the industry and the so-called public members acting in concert—nullified thousands of legal contracts covering millions of workers," the resolution said.

"We flatly reject the concept that anyone—be it Pay Board or president—has the power to abrogate any legal collective bargaining agreement or any other contract voluntarily and legally entered into by American citizens or their representatives," it said.

"The public members, so-called, are not independent but rather are handmaidens of the administration. They are not neutral but have long ties either to industry or government," it added.

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate Banking Committee Thursday approved 14 to 0 legislation to overrule the Pay Board and grant retroactively most pay raises lost in the wage freeze.

The committee added the measure to a bill to extend President Nixon's authority over the economy for a year past its present expiration date of April 30. The bill is scheduled for Senate debate next Monday.

Meanwhile, the Pay Board kept 40,000 striking coal miners waiting another day for clarification of the status of their new contract, which calls for raises roughly double the board's post-freeze guidelines.

In other developments:

—The AFL-CIO convention of 1,000 delegates unanimously approved in Miami Beach an executive board recommendation to keep its representatives on the Pay Board, despite bitter dissatisfaction with its policies.

—The White House announced President Nixon will address the AFL-CIO convention Friday.

—Sen. William Proxmire, D-Wis., chairman of the Joint Economic Committee, said wage-price controls have become so complex and difficult for citizens to understand that they should be scrapped within six months in favor of voluntary guidelines. If the present system works, he said, "it will be the greatest miracle since the water was walked on."

—The Commerce Department reported that the nation's output of goods and services grew at a yearly rate of 3.9 per cent in the July-September quarter. This is a full percentage point higher than previously estimated, but still well below the 8 per cent rate for the January-March quarter and the 4.8 per cent rate for the April-June quarter.

—The Price Commission released a long list of companies seeking price increases, including three big steel firms, but approved no new price increases.

The Senate panel approved 14 to 0 an amendment to grant retroactive pay raises unless the President determines them to be "unreasonably inconsistent" with the Pay Board's guidelines.

The Pay Board itself, to the consternation of organized labor and its friends in Congress, has repeatedly refused to grant retroactive pay raises except in a handful of specific circumstances.

The Senate committee's counterpart in the House had earlier approved, by a one-vote margin, a similar amendment to allow retroactive pay in most cases. However, the House Banking Committee has put off final action on the overall bill until Nov. 30, and opponents of retroactive pay may yet reverse that vote.

The Senate committee also approved an amendment by Sen. John Tower, R-Tex., to approve retroactive pay under contracts negotiated by state and local governments, a measure intended to apply to teachers.

Military Situation In Cambodia Reported Becoming Critical

SAIGON (AP) — With the military situation becoming critical in Cambodia, U.S. warplanes have stepped up their support of Cambodian troops, official American sources reported Thursday.

Reports circulated in Saigon that the South Vietnamese government was considering a Cambodian request for infantry and heavy weapons for the defense of Phnom Penh. Hand-to-hand fighting was reported near the western outskirts of the Cambodian capital.

Dispatches from Phnom Penh reported U.S. Cobra helicopter gunships have been thrown into the battle raging from 10 to 12 miles west of the capital.

The U.S. sources said the Cambodians have been getting substantially more American air support in the last 10 days.

The increased support has been mainly U.S. fighter-bombers, flying from bases in South Vietnam and Thailand, the informants reported. The planes have been active on Cambodia's northeastern front.

A Cambodian officer on the front west of Phnom Penh said the rockets of the Cobras were unable to penetrate the jungle cover of enemy bunkers and added that heavy weapons are needed. This would account for the request for South Vietnamese heavy guns.

A dispatch from Phnom Penh said Cambodian and enemy troops fought with knives and rifle butts in flooded rice fields 12 miles from the downtown section of the capital.

A high command spokesman in Phnom Penh said 11 Cambodian soldiers were killed, 88 wounded, and 80 enemy bodies were found on the battlefields Wednesday. He had no estimate of Thursday's casualties.

have repeatedly made our position clear, we are awaiting a constructive reply and, therefore, have nothing further to say."

Thuy and his Viet Cong colleague, Nguyen Van Thien, had little to say either. Pham Dang Lam, the Saigon representative took his cue from Porter and limited his remarks to seven minutes. The result was that the 136th plenary session lasted one hour and thirty-two minutes, not counting a lunch break, and was the shortest on record.

U.S. Remains Tough; Talk Shortest On Record

(c) N.Y. Times News Service PARIS—William J. Porter, the chief American negotiator at the Vietnam peace talks here, maintained the tough stance he has shown over the last few weeks by saying almost nothing Thursday.

Porter greeted Xuan Thuy, the representative of North Vietnam who returned to the conference after a two-month absence, with a 23-word statement that implied that it was up to Thuy if the talks were to get anywhere. Porter said: "Ladies and gentlemen: We have repeatedly made our position clear, we are awaiting a constructive reply and, therefore, have nothing further to say."

New South Street School Won't Be Ready Until Feb.

Parents of South Street Elementary School pupils, now attending the Allegheny Valley School at Clarendon, got the bad news Thursday that their new school will not be ready until February, 1972.

The director of grounds and buildings has placed the latest blame for delay on failure of the supplier to make shipment of shelving and room dividers.

Norge Luvison had said in early October that "with some pressure" the building could be made ready for occupancy during Christmas vacation.

calling Thompson and Luvison; and that when they have been successful in reaching them by phone, they have pleaded that there wasn't anything they could do.

She said the mothers were told that the contract with Anundson did not include a penalty clause for failure to complete the building by a certain date. The explanation was given that the school district would have had to pay a premium had the contractor completed the job prior to that date.

Teachers May Receive Negotiated Pay Hikes

The latest word "right from the horses' mouth" is that the Warren County School District can pay teachers the negotiated salary increases of $700. It wasn't an easy task to find the "horse," according to the superintendent of schools.

Howard Thompson said Thursday, also, that the policy on retroactive pay will not be released by the Wage Board until some time today.

Thompson said he finally got a ruling from a spokesman for the board in Pittsburgh, after spending a frustrating day of getting runarounds in an attempt to locate the right "horse."

"I have never been given such a runaround in my life," Thompson said. "But with all the frustration it was somewhat amusing.

"After talking to a number of people in Washington, all who very politely told me they couldn't give me the answer, I was given a telephone number guaranteed to be the prime source of that information."

"The phone rang for at least 10 minutes—but nobody answered."

The board spokesman in Pittsburgh said that the ruling had been issued on retroactive pay but that it would not be released to the news media until today.

The $700 increase negotiated by the school district and the teachers included a $300 increase mandated by the state.

Rooftop Sniper In Ireland Kills British Soldier

BELFAST, Northern Ireland (AP) — A rooftop sniper shot a British soldier dead and seriously wounded another Thursday as they guarded a bus depot in Belfast's Short Strand Roman Catholic quarter.

The gunman struck after the army rounded up 23 terrorist suspects in pre-dawn sweeps across Belfast and while British Laborite opposition leader Harold Wilson was completing talks on the Northern Ireland crisis with the province's political leaders.

The two unidentified soldiers were men of Scotland's Black Watch Regiment, the army said.

Their assailant was believed to be a terrorist of the outlawed Irish Republican Army which is battling the army in a bid to force the British out of Northern Ireland.

The dead man—who was killed instantly—was the 39th soldier to die in Northern Ireland this year. His slaying hoisted the over-all total in 27 months of blood-letting to 159.

Terrorist suspects grabbed by the army earlier were caught in the Lower Falls and Andersonstown areas, both known as IRA strongholds.

The arrests brought to 1,003 the number of persons held and questioned since the Northern Ireland government invoked powers of internment without trial on Aug. 9. About 300 of these are still being held under indefinite internment. Scores of others are being held in jail while their cases are assessed.

On the final day of his fact-finding tour of Northern Ireland, Wilson visited the homes of both Roman Catholics and Protestants to talk about the IRA's terrorist campaign and reaction to British army operations.

As he left one house in a Protestant area, Wilson was greeted by a boisterous crowd and one woman thumped her fist on the roof of his car.

The opposition leader also had talks with extreme Protestant leader the Rev. Ian Paisley and the Roman Catholic primate of all Ireland, William Cardinal Conway.

Demos Close Ranks To Keep Campaign Financing Alive

WASHINGTON (AP) — Amid Republican shouts of "slush fund" and "raid on the Treasury," Senate Democrats closed ranks almost solidly Thursday to keep alive a presidential campaign financing plan that would use government funds.

The Senate voted 49 to 46 to reject a GOP move to kill the proposal, giving Democrats confidence they would be able to write it into the $26-billion tax-cut bill later.

The proposal could give the two major party nominees $20.4 million each in public funds next year.

Lining up against the move to kill it were 49 Democrats. All 43 Republicans present voted for the motion and were joined by Democratic Sens. Sam J. Ervin Jr., N.C., and John L. McClellan, Ark., and Independent Sen. Harry F. Byrd Jr., Va. The vote was preceded and followed by a lively, shouting debate.

Sen. Robert Dole, R-Kan., the Republican national chairman, denounced the proposal as "the biggest Democratic fund-raising affair in history."

The Democrats have a $9.3-million debt left over from 1968. Republicans said during the debate they would not use the public funds provided in the plan.

Democrats replied this was the case because President Nixon is expected to have available up to $40 million for his reelection drive.

The fund would be created by decisions of taxpayers to check a box on their income tax returns and designate $1 of their payment—$2 for a couple—to go into the fund.

Senate Group Approves Bringing 50,000 American Troops Home

WASHINGTON (AP) — Voting to carve $3.3 billion from President Nixon's defense budget, the Senate Appropriations Committee approved Thursday bringing 50,000 American troops home from Europe.

Chairman Alan J. Ellender, D-La., dismissed as "hogwash" Defense Secretary Melvin R. Laird's protest that enforcing a 250,000 limit on the number of U.S. personnel in Europe would irreparably damage the American defense position.

The committee approved 1972 defense spending of $70.2 billion, a figure that is $800 million less than the House-passed total and $3.3 billion less than the administration wanted.

The committee rejected, 14 to 10, another in a long series of moves to use the power of the purse to force withdrawal of U.S. troops from Indochina and, among a number of other specific cuts, it voted to trim spending for military intelligence by $68.4 million. The House voted earlier to trim intelligence funds by an additional $181 million.

Ellender said the cuts will not affect national security in any manner and added: "We are confident the military can operate effectively with this huge sum."

Ellender noted the Nixon administration says the war is practically over in Vietnam and that the nation will not get involved in any more Vietnam-type conflicts.

"Therefore this is an opportunity to cut back unnecessary military spending," Ellender said, suggesting the savings be used to step up domestic programs in education, poverty and pollution.

Ellender said the recommended troop cut in Europe, which was approved on a narrow 14-13 committee vote, also will not affect U.S. security.

"We simply do not need 300,000 American troops there any more," Ellender said. "Our allies must take on a larger share of the defense burden in Europe."

The European withdrawal amendment has been sponsored unsuccessfully for years by Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield of Montana.

In its present form it cuts off spending after June 15, 1972, for any troops in Europe in excess of 250,000.

A Senate floor fight is expected but Ellender predicted there are now enough votes to sustain it.

In a two-page letter to members of the committee Laird called the proposed plan dangerous and said it "would undermine chances for the success of mutual and balanced force reduction negotiations."

He said unilateral disarmament would be reckless, weaken efforts to negotiate with the Soviet Union, cause the loss of confidence by America's allies, and create the impression that the United States is unwilling to keep its pledges.

Local EOC Needs Funds, Approval Of 1972 Budget

By BOB ROGGE

The Warren-Forest Counties Economic Opportunities Council, Inc., may be in trouble by year's end if the state Office of Economic Opportunities in Philadelphia does not approve their budget for 1972.

Richard Brown, executive director, told the board meeting last night that his office is now using, and has been since Sept. 30, non-federal excess funds from several programs to carry the administrative end of the operation along until relief in some form comes from the Philadelphia office.

The Philadelphia office of EOC apparently is holding back on approval of the area EOC's budget for 1972 because of several non-specific items in the budget. It was not brought out at the meeting just what these non-specific items were.

Miss Doreen Hopkins, senior field representative from the state office, who had visited the local EOC office earlier in the week, had told them that the probability of the state EOC taking any action before the end of this month or early December is remote. She added that once EOC approval of the budget is made, it then goes to the governor's desk where it could remain for up to 30 days for further action. If approved by the governor, there would be a further delay until the first check arrived in Warren.

A motion was passed for Brown to call Miss Hopkins See EOC, Page 2

16 Districts Overlap In State; But No Senate Seats Conflict

HARRISBURG (AP) — Legislative districts of 16 House members overlap in the initial reapportionment plan to bring state House and Senate seats in line with the latest population figures for Pennsylvania.

The Legislative Reapportionment Commission reported Thursday there were no conflicting seats in the realignment of Senatorial districts.

Following the U.S. Supreme Court's one-man one-vote ruling, the aim of reapportionment is to provide each of the 203 House members with close to the same number of constituents. The same is true for the 50 senators.

Using 1970 census figures, which put the statewide population at 11.7 million, the ideal constituency for each representative is 58,115 and for each senator, 235,950.

The initial plan is on file with the secretary of the Commonwealth and complaints can be filed during the next 30 days. After that, the commission has 30 days to revise and prepare a final plan which is subject to appeal before the state Supreme Court. The new districts become effective if there are no appeals within 30 days of submission of the final plan or the high court upholds it.

The 16 representatives hold conflicting House seats in nine of the proposed new districts. Sen. Richard A. Tilghman, R-Montgomery, a member of the commission, said two of the districts are held by incumbent Philadelphia Democrats Sarah B. Anderson and Louis Sherman. Tilghman said both informed the commission that they won't seek re-election.

Other lawmakers whose new districts overlap:

Philadelphia Democrats Joel J. Johnson and Mitchell W. Melton;

Philadelphia Democrats Martin P. Mullen and James P. O'Donnell;

Allegheny County Democrats Paul F. Luty and William J. Coyne;

Allegheny County Democrats A.T. Fenrich and Michael M. Mullen;

Fayette County Democrats Fred Taylor and Donald M. Davis;

Beaver County Democrat Charles B. Stone and Republican Robert O. Davis.

Armstrong County Democrat C. Doyle Steele and Republican John B. McCue.

The major change in the Senate moved Philadelphia Republican Robert Rovner's 6th District into parts of Bucks and Montgomery counties. About half of his constituency would still be in the northeastern part of the city. This change leaves Philadelphia with eight Democratic senators.

Tilghman said only three senatorial districts would remain unchanged. They are those of Sens. Robert J. Mellon, D-Lackawanna, Patrick J. Stapleton, D-Indiana, and Donald O. Oesterling, D-Butler.

Stapleton and Oesterling were scheduled to run for re-election in 1972 along with 24 other senators who come from odd-numbered districts. The court will have to decide if senators from even-numbered districts, whose terms last until 1974, will have to run next year.

After the 1966 redistricting, required because of the one-man, one-vote ruling, the state Supreme Court ruled that all lawmakers run for election.

All of the House terms—two years instead of four as in the Senate—expire in 1972.

Although the reapportionment process allows 90 days total for complaints to be filed, revisions to be made and appeals to be heard, a final plan must be adopted before the Jan. 25 date for circulating nominating petitions for the primary election. Tilghman said the commission most likely will not take a full 30 days to make revisions.

Other lawmakers who serve on the commission were Reps. Kenneth B. Lee, R-Sullivan, and James Prendergast, D-Northumberland, and Sen. Thomas F. Lamb, D-Allegheny.

A. Leo Levin, a professor from the University of Pennsylvania, was named by the Supreme Court as nonpartisan chairman.

Redistricting varies from congressional reapportionment where the realignment of U.S. House seats must be approved by a vote of the legislature.

The commission said it tried to keep each district as close to the ideal figure as possible. The highest variance was in the 19th Legislative District in Allegheny County which was 3.1 per cent over the ideal with a population of 59,923.

Tilghman said the commission was worried about any district that varied more than 1.5 per cent. Eleven Senate and 45 House districts are more than 1.5 per cent different from the ideal.

Republican Governors Speak Out For Agnew

FRENCH LICK, Ind. (AP) — California Gov. Ronald Reagan and the outgoing chairman of the Republican Governors Association gave Vice President Spiro T. Agnew a strong vote of confidence Thursday, saying they hope he will again be President Nixon's running mate in 1972.

The praise from Reagan and Kentucky Gov. Louie B. Nunn came as the vice president flew into this southern Indiana resort center to deliver a low-keyed speech praising the administration's effort to streamline domestic programs.

Nunn also delivered the major political broadside of the opening conference session, blasting Democratic presidential hopefuls as "political parasites" and "doomsday politicians." He said he thinks the GOP should meet Democratic political attacks with vigorous counterattacks.

But, Gov. William G. Milliken of Michigan, a moderate due to succeed Nunn at the end of the association's two-day meeting, predicted the GOP will run a "strictly positive campaign" in 1972.

Reagan was asked at a news conference about speculation that Treasury Secretary John B. Connally, a Texas Democrat, might replace Agnew as the No. 2 man on Nixon's ticket next year.

"I never thought that a new kid in school should wind up being teacher's pet," the California governor said. "I think Agnew should continue. He's done a great job."

Nunn, asked the same question at a separate news conference, said, "I hope that Vice President Agnew is on the ticket. I don't feel at this time there is anybody who could or should replace him on the ticket. I would be disappointed to see him dropped."

23 Major Industries May Close In Birmingham

BIRMINGHAM, Ala. (AP) — The air pollution crisis in this industrial city was eased Thursday by changing weather patterns, but 23 major industries were preparing to cease operations under a federal court order.

John White, director of the Environmental Protection Agency's regional enforcement division, said his staff would decide Friday morning whether to ask a federal judge to lift the shutdown order, depending on the effectiveness of the shift in weather.

A thin haze hung over the city all day Thursday, causing some persons to complain of burning eyes.

County health officials said there was no marked increase in respiratory patients admitted to local hospitals. Persons with respiratory and heart ailments had been warned to stay indoors and avoid exercise during the air pollution crisis.

U.S. District Court Judge Sam Pointer Jr., issued the injunction at his home at 1:45 a.m. Thursday at the request of the EPA, acting through the Justice Department.

He set a hearing Friday on the injunction, the first issued here under the emergency powers of the Clean Air Act of 1970.

The request came after the particulate level, or count of dirty matter in the air, soared above 700 for the second consecutive day Wednesday. The EPA considers a particulate level of 625 as the warning stage.

The agency says the dirty air count should not exceed 260 for more than one day a year. Birmingham has had nearly 70 such days in the past year and averages a count of 167.

The National Weather Service said the higher winds contained in the new weather pattern were in advance of a cold front which was moving a stagnant high pressure area to the east. The high pressure had lingered over the Birmingham area since early in the week.

The Jefferson County Health Department said its count of particulates was 410 in north Birmingham at midmorning Thursday. That area, which experienced a 771 count Tuesday and 758 Wednesday, is the site of many of the industries cited by Pointer's order.

The county health officer, Dr. George Hardy, said there were indications that all the firms were trying to comply with the order, but he could not say if their efforts led to the drop in the pollution count.

One of the industries on the list, U.S. Steel's sprawling plant at nearby Fairfield, employs 12,000 persons. A spokesman said the firm took voluntary control steps Wednesday and was going further Thursday, but details were not immediately available.

Industry spokesmen said a total of more than 25,000 persons probably were employed by the 23 firms.

An EAP spokesman said the industries could shut down in a matter of hours, "but we can't expect them to immediately shut down, that would ruin all the machinery."

"The process should take about four hours and will leave them in a position to start up again fairly quickly when the crisis is over."

Warren County Fair Officials Elect Five

More than 70 members of Warren County Fair, Inc. met at the Pittsfield Community Center Thursday evening to elect five new directors and begin formulating plans for the 1972 county fair.

Max Bennick, Robert Jameson and John Hummer were reelected to the 15-member board of directors along with newcomers Hank Kane and Guy Wilcox. Incumbent members Gordon Maynard and Evan Wilcox were also nominated but lost their seats to Kane and Guy Wilcox.

Others nominated were Arnold Hagberg and Steve Vanko. Five director seats come up for election each year according to the by-laws of the fair. Consequently each of those elected will serve three-year terms.

Norm Perschke was reelected auditor by the group.

The annual fair meeting marks the beginning of plans for the upcoming year. Fair President Robert Scott revealed that the 1972 Warren County Fair will be held from August 7 to 12. He predicted next year's fair will be bigger and better than any in the past.

County Extension Agent Bernard Wingert agreed, claiming "the Warren County Fair will soon be one of the biggest and best in North-western Pennsylvania."

Wingert relived the 1971 fair early in the meeting with a color slide presentation. He pointed out the accomplishments the group made during the past few months—including the construction of three new buildings at the fairgrounds.

A spokesman for the Gooding Amusement Company was also on hand to talk about next year's fair. He promised that his firm would supply entirely different rides in 1972, except for the merry-go-round and ferris wheel.

He said that their first year with the Warren County Fair has been very successful. "We'll try to bring you even better rides in the future."

Scott asked for suggestions from the floor and one member recommended another sign advertising the fair to be put up for eastbound drivers—similar to the new fairgrounds sign that faces westbound drivers on Route 6. The Dooding Amusements representative offered $100 to assist in the construction of the sign.

Scott said he is negotiating with county and highway officials to improve the one-lane bridge that leads to the fairgrounds. "I can't say we'll have a new bridge next year... maybe within three or four years."

He also announced that the Pennsylvania Horseshoe Tourney would be held at the fairgrounds next summer.

Before adjourning the group was entertained by four young singers known as "God's Own."

School

The spokesman said that the situation is even more serious now that one of the buses has been pulled from the route. She said that the children must sit three and four in a seat.

She said that PTA membership and attendance has dropped because "we have no school."

Performance under the contract and the actual awarding of the contract have been questioned.

A question of conflict of interest arose at the bid opening session in March, 1970 when the apparent low bidder was named as Anundson Associates of Sheffield. Philip Anundson was then a member of the board.

R. Pierson Eaton, the board solicitor, ruled then that the authority should not consider a bid submitted by an authority or school board member. He said that if the bidder was not a member when the bid was considered, the bid would be acceptable.

It was learned later that night that prior to the meeting of the school board to consider the bids, Anundson had submitted his resignation to the buildings and grounds committee. The board meeting was held after the bid opening.

Anundson submitted the apparent low bid of $722,037, about $16,000 higher than the district's estimated cost of $706,037, but about $20,000 less than the second low bidder.

The spokesman for the mothers said that they have had numerous reports from those on the job and from those observing the workers that work had not progressed at the rate it could.

Four Killed In Chartered Plane Crash

PAINESVILLE, Ohio (AP) — Three executives of North American Rockwell Corp. were among four persons killed Thursday when a chartered plane slammed into a field near this northeast Ohio city.

The executives were flying from a company division at Ashtabula to Detroit to attend a business meeting when the two-engine plane apparently lost power and crashed.

Another plane which had departed Ashtabula a few minutes earlier with North American executives aboard arrived in Detroit safely.

Killed were Paul J. Francisco, 40, of Pittsburgh, Pa., general manager of the firm's reinforced plastics-automotive products division at Ashtabula; Robert L. Wiese, 48, of Ashtabula, the division's marketing manager; John L. Maurer, 48, of Madison Township, a division plant manager; and the pilot, William Shelden, 31, of Hubbard.

Wiese was a standout fullback on the University of Michigan football team in 1942 and 1946-47.

The two Cessna 310s, four-place aircraft, were chartered from the Midtown Aviation Corp. in Youngstown.

Shelden and A. Paul Rock, manager of the Landown Airport where Midtown is located, flew the planes to Ashtabula early Thursday morning to pick up the executives.

Shelden was a flight examiner with the Federal Aviation Administration and had logged over 3,000 hours in the air in varied aircraft.

The ill-fated plane went down about 10 minutes after a 7:10 a.m. takeoff. It disintegrated on impact.

Youth Faces Drug Charge

A 16-year-old Warren area youth was charged with a violation of the Drug, Device and Cosmetic Act by Deputy Sheriff Douglas Irvine this week.

Irvine said the youth had about one ounce of marijuana in his possession.

Also arrested by Irvine were three other juveniles, ages, 14, 15 and 16. The trio was charged with five counts of burglary each in incidents involving camps.

All were referred to juvenile authorities.

There's no longer office-to-office mail delivery at the Warren County court house. Mail is left at the office of the county commissioners where personnel distributes it to the proper slot in a resurrected facility. Office workers then pick up their own correspondence. There's even a slot marked "garbage."

Someone wanted to take turkey home last weekend. Jeff Blum, 11-year-old son of Paul and Lois Blum of German Hill in Forest County, discovered three of his beautiful birds were missing from a pen behind the house.

office this morning and inquire whether or not this office will get grant funding until the budget is approved. He is also to ask what specifics are required from this office for budget approval.

Miss Hopkins told this paper that portions of the local budget had not been received in the Philadelphia office until sometime between Oct. 15 and 19th, and that the final parts did not arrive there until Nov. 5.

The Warren OEO budget request is for $58,000 and there has been made an additional grant of $27,632 for the STRIDE program.

Brown told the board they have two alternatives for temporary funding of the administrative portion of the program (which he said must be maintained or all other programs automatically stop). He said they could borrow funds from a commercial bank and repay the interest with non-federal funds, or they could borrow from the STRIDE account then repay the funds when budgetary funding is resumed.

Miss Hopkins said that normally local OEO offices should have their annual budget funds by Oct. 1.

When asked whether her office was contemplating making any major cuts in the local OEO budget she said, "I'm not confirming or denying anything."

Blacks Protest Jailing Of Gannon Students

ERIE — About 200 black citizens marched silently on the Erie County Jail Wednesday afternoon, protesting the jailing of two Gannon College students for allegedly stabbing a college sophomore in his dormitory a week ago.

The peaceful demonstration moved from 17th and Parade sts. to the jail, where they were met by about 15 sheriff's deputies and city policemen.

Carrying signs saying "We Want a Free Trial," "Freedom and Justice," "Free Mike Molino" and "Justice for Al Bolton," the group assembled on the sidewalk in front of the prison.

March organizers Rick Livas, representing the Black Student Union of Gannon, and William Powell, black student advisor at the college, addressed the crowd briefly.

Livas said, "We want the people of Erie to know that two students are lying in jail because they are being persecuted by the police and the news media."

Powell told the demonstrators to disperse after about 10 minutes. Several people lingered, but most went quickly. Sheriff's deputies just stood by.

A tight security lid was clamped on the courthouse as word spread about the march. Workers were told to go home an hour early in case trouble developed, but two judges continued to hear criminal trials behind locked doors.

Shortly before the march started, Judge William E. Pfadt set bail at $10,000 each for the two students. The motion to release on bail came from court-appointed attorneys.

Bolton and Molino, both from New York City, have been charged with assault to kill and assault to maim in the Nov. 10 beating of 19-year-old William Koziar of Norfolk, Va. Koziar was punched and then stabbed with what police said was an Afro hair styler.

Pets Banned From Dickinson College Campus

CARLISLE, Pa. (AP) — Dickinson College is banning pets from its campus after Nov. 27. Though the number of Dickinson pets is unknown, it's sizable enough to warrant a dean's order.

In issuing the order, Dean Richard H. Wanner said, "College residences are not an appropriate domain for animals because of their disruptive effects. The health and well-being of some students has been jeopardized by animals housed on campus."

Also, he added, "Personnel employed to service living facilities have found themselves over-burdened, threatened, and occasionally injured by animals."

The college's Parents Advisory Committee also went on record for the ban, saying that the pets often receive inadequate care.

State Police Announce Two Promotions

HARRISBURG — Two veteran state policemen have been promoted to the rank of lieutenant colonel in the wake of a major reorganization of the command structure of the force, it was announced today at headquarters here.

Promoted were Majors Charles S. Graci and Edward M. McGroarty. Their promotions are effective today.

Lt. Col. Graci, 57, formerly commander of area VI in Butler, was named commander or field operations and Lt. Col. McGroarty, 55, who had been commander of area II, was named chief of auxiliary services. Graci enlisted in 1937 and McGroarty in 1938.

None Injured In Two Car Collision

No one was hurt Thursday when a motorist pulled his car from the north curb of Pennsylvania ave. west around noon and collided with a west-bound vehicle driven by a Warren woman.

Warren Borough Police Officer Edward Lindberg reported that Beverly A. Fleming, 19, of 200 Lookout st. was driving west on Pennsylvania ave. when her car was struck by a vehicle driven by Dennis H. Rock, 24, of 215½ Canton st.

Damage to the Fleming car came to $150. Damage to Rock's car was estimated at $50.

The incident occurred approximately 50 feet from the Liberty st. intersection.

Identification Cards Issued To Senecas

SALAMANCA, N. Y. — Identification cards are being issued to all Seneca Indians enrolled on tribal records, according to James E. George, Seneca Nation of Indians president, as under legislation adopted at the last session of the State Legislature, they now may hunt on or off the reservations without a New York State hunting license.

George stressed that Senecas will be required to obey state conservation laws when hunting off the reservations.

Under a 1972 act, Indians do not have to have deer tags, so the Seneca Nation is issuing transportation tags to cover game shot.

Non-Senecas may obtain Seneca licenses to hunt small game on reservations, but are not permitted to kill deer or bear. By custom and under treaties, George said, Senecas hunt on their own reservations without regard to state seasons.

They Can't Help It

Penn Central apologized again. After Wednesday's latest episode of the "blinking light syndrome" caused by an equipment failure that kept the traffic lights along Fourth avenue in Warren blinking all day, causing a day-long traffic jam and irritating drivers to the point where an accident due to frazzled tempers was avoided more by luck than by chance—Penn Central apologizes.

Great. Penn Central can't help it that its employe didn't relay the borough police report; it can't help it that the nearest repairman is in Emporium; it can't help it that a bottleneck on Market street, the main ambulance thoroughfare for the entire Warren area, may mean death to an accident victim.

Our borough police department, too, can't help it; despite the fact that this blinking-light situation constitutes a major traffic hazard, the department is "understaffed" and can't direct traffic at the intersections even during rush hours. Our borough council can't help it; it can't press the Public Utilities Commission about the crucial nature of the intersections along the railroad right-of-way and of Penn Central's repeated dereliction on signal maintenance in this area; it can't push our state assemblymen to look into the problem; it can't, as a last resort, declare the tracks a major safety hazard and temporarily blockade the right-of-way until permanent improvement in the present situation results (such as regular inspection, a reporting system that produces results instead of excuses, and the availability of a repairman on a reasonable basis).

But should the worst happen, and a schoolchild be killed while trying to cross that intersection at noon or 3 p.m., who would be just as responsible as the driver?

Not Penn Central; not our borough policemen; not our elected representatives.

Of course not—they can't help it.

American Evening At Home

By Jim Bishop

The American evening at home... The host is Jenkins, the fat little man mixing drinks in the kitchen. His wife is the one who is smiling and perspiring. Two hours ago, she cupped her hands and shouted gaily, "Come and get it," and the other three couples had wandered to a dining room table to partake of cold cuts, potato salad, pickled beets, cheese fondue bubbling yellow, and a layer cake. Now it was drink time again. The men in the living room had pulled the chairs closer around the big coffee table so that there was a communal atmosphere of intimacy. "I gotta tell you this story," McManus says. "It's a quickie. Little boy gets on a bus—" "Oh, not that one," his wife says, pasting her motherly smile on his kisser. "Why not?" McManus said. "It's clean, more than I can say for your stories. Well, kid gets on the bus, see, and the driver looks at him—" "Who's the vodka on the rocks?" the host says, tottering from kitchen to living room with a tray of glasses. "Me," says Mr. Feinberg, who holds a finger to his lips. "Mack is telling a story." "Mrs. Feinberg," the host says, "you're the dry martini, honey. Right?" Mrs. Feinberg nods and lifts the frosted glass from the tray.

A Shot in the Head "So I said to his mother," Ronnie Morgan says, "what our kid needs most of all is a good shot in the head. He's got his B.S., his Master's and now he wants a doctorate. For God's sake, the kid is 28 years old and he has a room full of swastikas and German helmets and dirty books." McManus gulps a scotch. "If everybody would shut up for a minute, I'll tell you about this kid on a bus."

For a moment, there is silence. "Whose kid?" Mrs. Feinberg says with alarm. "Did something happen?" "Ruth," Feinberg says, "it's a joke. J-o-k-e." "Oh," she says, "I thought somebody got killed."

"Only the story," Mrs. McManus says, emerging from the kitchen with glass trays of salted peanuts and chocolate mints. "My glass is empty," Mrs. Morgan says. Her bluish hair is deepening in color. "Easy, hon," her husband says. "You're on candid camera."

"Don't worry," she snaps. "You're driving and stop counting." "It's 10 o'clock already," Mrs. Jenkins says. "Let me check the children and see if they're tucked in." "The hell with them," her husband says. "When they get married you'll still be tucking them in."

He trots to the kitchen and brings back bottles of vodka, scotch, bourbon, gin and a bucket of ice. "Please," he says. "Everybody help themselves. Or is it himself? I forget." Mrs. McManus winks at Morgan, presses her cheek against him, and calls him "Lover boy." "You don't mind, do you, Alice?" Alice Morgan shrugs. "Be my guest."

The four couples drink, talk and chew. By 11 p.m. no one mixes drinks. The liquor is poured on ice. Someone gets a carafe of water. Jenkins claims, without argument, that if Nixon doesn't go to Peking, there is a good chance that Peking might come to us. Two of the women and one of the men admire the President.

All eight of them know exactly what the White House should be doing, but isn't. "This kid gets on the bus, see," says McManus, and the motorman—I mean, the driver—watches him drop a dime in the box instead of 20 cents. "I say," Feinberg says with a pontifical wave of the head, "that he's doing a great job. Didn't he say he'd get us out of this war? Aren't we practically out? What do you guys want—blood?"

The Ignored Signal "Then how come you voted for Humphrey?" Morgan says, pouring a double for himself. "Because," Feinberg states, "I... did... not... know... the... man. Okay by you?" "Okay," Morgan says. "No argument." At 11:30, Mrs. McManus winds her watch. This is a signal to Mr. McManus, who ignores it. Mrs. Feinberg tells Mrs. Jenkins that her 12-year-old, Sheree, can knit and sew and make her own skirts.

"Well," says McManus, slurring the words slightly, "the driver asks this little boy—" "What little boy?" Mrs. Morgan says. "—how old he is and the kid says 11. In other words, half fare. Get it?" Three persons nod. Jenkins' hitting his shin against a lamp base, says: "Damn it. I missed Walter Cronkite."

Morgan takes a swig from a bottle. "Now I know why I don't dig that bourbon," he says. "It tastes like I'm living in a barrel." One of the men jogs Mrs. Feinberg's elbow and the drink runs down the front of her dress. Mrs. Jenkins runs for a cloth. "It's nothing. Nothing," says Mrs. Feinberg. "I can do it at home."

...and the bus driver," McManus says, standing in the bathroom and holding the door ajar, "says when will you be 12, son? The kid says as soon as I get off this bus. Doesn't that crack you up?"

The American evening at home....

"I JUST LOPPED OFF A FEW ROUGH EDGES."

WASHINGTON MERRY-GO-ROUND

Monopoly Building

By Jack Anderson

WASHINGTON — In the most dazzling lobbying performance since Peter Minuit sweet-talked the Indians out of Manhattan for $24, El Paso Natural Gas is sewing up gas markets in the western United States even as it monopolizes the flow from gas-rich Algeria.

And the taxpayers are playing the tune for this amazing corporate toe-dance. Hundreds of millions in federal funds — in the form of subsidies, loans and loan guarantees — will cushion El Paso against financial risks.

We have reported in the past that Congress seems bent on overturning three Supreme Court rulings to give El Paso a billion-dollar monopoly on gas sales in much of the West. Now, we can disclose how the White House, Treasury, State and Defense Departments and Export-Import Bank are rustling up federal money to assure that El Paso gets all important rights on Algeria's vast natural gas fields.

The Algerians are curious recipients of U.S. largesse at best. They prance in the aisles when the U.S. suffers UN defeats. They give haven to such fugitives as Eldridge Cleaver and Tim Leary who denounce the U.S. from Algerian rooftops. But El Paso's friends in government, such as Treasury Secretary John Connally and White House oil advisor Peter Flanigan, have been able to ignore these little matters of national pride because the price is right.

Therefore, El Paso shortly will be importing billions of cubic feet of Algerian natural gas which will cost from four to seven times more than ordinary domestic gas.

The story is immensely complex. But we have extracted the details from key bankers, government officials and natural gas experts. In a nutshell, here's how El Paso will mine its bonanza, courtesy of the U.S. exchequer.

At least $450 million in loans will be floated to pay Algeria for liquefying natural gas and loading it onto special tankers. The purpose, supposedly, is to relieve the U.S. gas shortage.

The $450 million will be supplied to Algeria in this way:

—A $150 million loan from the U.S. Export-Import Bank, which specializes in exporting the taxpayers' money.

—Another $150 million in loans from U.S. commercial banks, led by Manufacturers Hanover Trust and guaranteed by Export-Import.

—Another $50 million from the overseas funds of the Manufacturers Hanover consortium, with the same guarantee.

—A total of $100 million raised by Algeria from the Manufacturers Hanover consortium but not guaranteed by Export-Import.

BONANZA FOR BANKS Thus $350 million of the total will be loaned outright or guaranteed by the U.S. government, with the gigantic Manufacturers Hanover consortium gaining a bonanza from interest on risk-free loans.

As part of the deal, the poor taxpayer will be called on to cough up $80 million in subsidies to construct six tankers in U.S. shipyards.

Or as an alternate arrangement, the Export-Import Bank would be asked to finance the construction. Ownership of the vessels would be given nominally to a foreign concern, in this case.

So while the taxpayer digs into his pockets to subsidize a deal that will wind up increasing his natural gas bills, El Paso's real risk is minimal and its potential for profits astronomical. The deal, though still in flux on some details, is almost certain to go through. Only Federal Power Commission approval is necessary.

And the chairman of the FPC is none other than John Nassikas, the pro-industry patsy who has neglected the homeowners and has devoted his efforts to fattening corporate profits.

Footnote: White House aide Flanigan greased the ways for El Paso after private talks with its boss, dynamic Howard Boyd. Through a call to Nassikas and others, Flanigan helped push the deal through Washington's red tape jungles. By an interesting coincidence, Flanigan's father, Horace, created Manufacturers Hanover through a merger although he has now retired from the bank's active leadership. The Flanigan fortune is still husbanded by Manufacturers Hanover in a "blind trust." Nevertheless, Pete Flanigan said he did not know of Manufacturers Hanover's role until we told him. And Mike Bouteneff, the brilliant Manufacturers Hanover financier who is putting together the loan package, said "absolutely not" when we asked him whether Flanigan had played a role in arranging the bank's windfall.

WIRETAP WORRIES The Senate has the wiretap heebie-jeebies again.

Sen. Mike Gravel, D-Alaska, who read the Pentagon Papers in a Senate committee record, was told by a staffer with electronic experience that his office telephone lines were tapped. Since Gravel has figured in the federal investigation of the Pentagon Papers case, he had cause for concern.

Gravel called in the Spy Shop, a Washington electronics equipment store. The Spy Shop reported "a radio-type induction hum" in Gravel's phone lines. They said this indicated "a new development in phone tapping too complex to break."

By now, really upset, Gravel paid the $1,000 fee for this advice and solicited the additional aid of experts from the Massachusetts Institute of Technology. But the MIT sleuths found no evidence of any telephone tapping or bugging. Gravel has concluded that either the tap was removed or that his original fears were unfounded.

Rebuttal

Eli Lilly and Company's rebuttal to Jack Anderson's column of Nov. 18.

"Merry-Go-Round" charges that Darvon is no more effective than aspirin as a pain-killer. It also suggests that it is powerful enough to substitute for heroin addiction. Neither charge is correct.

The effectiveness of Darvon as a pain-killer in proper dosage has been attested by scientific experiments and wide use by the medical profession since 1957.

Darvon is not an addicting substance, now will it substitute for narcotics in addiction. This was demonstrated in extensive studies by the U.S. Public Health Service at the addiction research center in Lexington, Kentucky. No injectable form of Darvon is marketed. Occasionally abusers have been reported to inject the oral material. In such cases it usually closes the veins at the site of injection.

Oral abuse of Darvon is infrequent because doses large enough to cause a "high" usually cause nausea and vomiting.

Because of these conditions, abuse of Darvon should be self-limiting and brief. As a company deeply concerned with public health for almost a century, we deplore inaccurate and incomplete statements which destroy public confidence in good health care."

An Unhealthy Custom?

By Mason Dension

HARRISBURG — Columnist's Notebook:

The Narrow Viewpoint? — When the State Senate last week finally confirmed the appointment of Dr. Maurice K. Goddard as Secretary of the Department of Environmental Resources it marked the end of a somewhat absurd half-year drag-out of the gubernatorial nomination — but it also brought into focus a rather interesting and intriguing facet of Pennsylvania's (sometimes questionable) legislative life.

For example, prime reason for the delay in confirmation of Dr. Goddard over the past half-dozen months was the objection of Senator Edwin Holl, Montgomery County, to the Goddard advocacy of construction of a dam in the Senator's home county which he opposed.

Senatorial "courtesy" dictates that when a Senator opposes confirmation of a gubernatorial appointee, the Senate holds up action on the confirmation — as in the Goddard instance.

What is intriguing in all this though is the question of whether a strictly "local" issue is justification for, in effect, holding up resolution of statewide issue. Most certainly Senator Holl is to be commended for looking to the interests of the local constituency he represents — but the good Senator, as are all other 252 members of the Legislature, is also elected to serve the interests of the state as a whole.

The simple fact is that if all 253 lawmakers firmly established a "local right of priority" over the welfare and being of the Commonwealth, there would hardly be resolution of any issue!

The Philadelphia Story — Mayor-elect Frank Rizzo, the so-called tough cop who made it to the top in the Quaker City in the past November 2 election has made it quite clear that he wants more money for the city from the state.

In fact, he says that if he doesn't get more he just won't cooperate with the (fellow) Democratic Shapp Administration here in the seat of Pennsylvania's state government (or is it in Philadelphia?).

Mr. Rizzo might do well to take a closer look at his books, for the simple fact is that residents of the Keystone State at the moment are already subsidizing his village to the tune of nearly a quarter-billion dollars.

On Getting Clipped — In these days of long male presses and what-not, one can perhaps sympathize with barbers across the Commonwealth whose cars these days are somewhat despairingly tuned to only sporadic tinkling of their cash registers.

But wait — Representative Max H. Homer may be riding to the rescue with a resolution offered in the House of Representatives designed to ease their rather hairy financial plight.

The Homer resolution would have the new State Lottery Commission designate barbers across the state as agents for the sale of lottery tickets.

Well, at least that would be one way of getting clipped in more ways than one!

Youth On The Move — Twenty-year-old Neville J. Lord from across the river from Harrisburg in Cumberland County (Camp Hill) apparently believes in going all-out on the youth-in-politics movement — for he announced his candidacy as a delegate to the Republican National Convention next year.

Currently a student at Franklin and Marshall College in Lancaster, the youthful Mr. Lord says of his aspiration:

"My primary objective as an elected delegate is to help regain the trust and confidence of America in its young people by demonstrating our responsibility as active participants in the American system of government."

Economic Stabilization

Questions and Answers

Q—What is the new deadline for businessmen to have available lists of ceiling prices for the products and services they sell?

A—The original deadline of Nov. 1 has been extended until the Price Commission approves its post-freeze pricing policies and any requirements for ceiling price lists, which may prove to be different from those currently in effect.

However, present requirements on providing ceiling price information continue in effect. Each seller either must have ceiling price lists available or provide, on request, ceiling price information to customers by mail within 48 hours. In the latter case, sellers also must post large signs on each selling floor to announce the availability of ceiling price information.

Q—Will the freeze end automatically on Nov. 13?

A—The provisions of the economic stabilization program which have been in force since Aug. 15 will continue until they are specifically modified by the Price Commission, the Pay Board, or the Cost of Living Council.

Q—How does the freeze affect the price of cuts of meat?

A—The ceiling price for individual cuts can be no higher than during the base period. Meat cutters who priced and sold meat on an individual-cut basis during the base period may not price those same types of cuts on a carcass basis during the freeze. Marketers who priced and sold on a carcass basis during the base period may continue to sell on a carcass basis during the freeze.

Sales may be made at the highest price at which a substantial volume of actual transactions was made during the base period.

Sheffield Can Be Proud

If you've never seen it you wouldn't believe it.

The thoughts and actions of the 115 senior citizens of the Sheffield area who Tuesday night attended the official opening of the community center—designed especially with them in mind—echoed these words.

They sat awe-struck in the decorative chairs and lounges, their eyes moving from one wonder to the next.

They marveled at the gas log, see-through fireplace and said it was "homey."

They were tempted to walk barefoot over the bright red, deep-pile carpet.

They almost fought to get into the modern kitchen to help prepare the meal and wash the dishes.

They couldn't get over the fact that an elevator was provided for their convenience.

And they recognized that it wasn't really all for them, although they will be meeting there every afternoon.

The community center is for the use of every civic, fraternal, church and private organization in the area and the citizens in general. But unless they support it by contributing to the operating costs estimated at $3,000 a year, it won't be available even to the senior citizens.

There is hope for matching funds from the Dept. of Welfare to help with the operating costs. There is hope that the Dept. of Housing and Urban Development will fund the construction costs of the lower level. Funding is available from HUD for multiple-facility structures.

There is no guarantee that these monies will materialize.

Sheffield and its neighbors didn't sit back and wait for state or federal monies before.

We are certain they won't be caught sitting now, unless it is in the community center supporting it.

Conflict In Queens

By Tom Wicker

NEW YORK—A clash between New York City and Federal housing officials, on the one hand, and some aroused residents of Queens Borough, on the other, has achieved the remarkable feat of bringing Conservative Sen. James Buckley and Liberal Democratic Rep. Ben Rosenthal into tacit alliance on behalf of the residents.

That is because the collision reflects some of the most profound forces that trouble the nation today—the fear of crime, the association of crime and violence with low-income blacks, the anger of individuals at overwhelming bureaucracy, the resulting demand for community "participation" and control, the sad but often understandable reluctance of comfortable people to risk disruption of their lives for broad social purposes they only vaguely understand.

The officials are about to begin construction of an 840-unit, $29.9 million, high-rise public housing development for low-income tenants in Forest Hills, a middle-income section of Queens. The Forest Hills Residents' Association is determined to stop the project, although a temporary restraining order to that effect was dismissed in State Court a few weeks ago.

Secretary George Romney of H.U.D. has promised another review of the project, for which his department is putting up some of the money, but nobody in the city housing authority seems unduly worried about that. From their vantage point, in any case, the resistance in Forest Hills is seen largely as "misguided fear."

Housing officials contend that the project, which is not displacing any other housing, actually will enhance the community. It will be well within population density limits, they say, only 15 per cent of the acreage will be used for buildings, with the rest going to park and playground use, and the majority of the tenants will be drawn from the Queens area—with 40 per cent of the units being reserved for elderly persons.

These officials cite other examples of the city's program to disperse public housing outside slum areas; Latimer Gardens in Flushing, for example, is touted as a project that has not damaged but improved a community.

Jerry Birbach, the president of the Forest Hills Residents' Association, dismisses most of this as "Just plain lying." Schools and transportation in the area already are overcrowded, he argues, and the community planning board has twice voted against the project. As for "Lindsay and Aurelio"—the mayor and his former deputy—Birbach remarks with special bitterness that repeated efforts have resulted in "No dialogue."

No wonder, he says, that "we're beginning to feel the only way to get community participation is to be militant."

But the real root of Birbach's opposition plainly is his conviction that "they're transplanting a malignant tumor to a healthy viable community." He and his group are not against racial integration, he says, but they are opposed to "economic integration" because they are convinced that "crime is bred in low-income areas."

Simeon Golar, the chairman of the Housing Authority, and other officials are convinced Birbach is the victim of false fears. But even if he is, it does not take a long conversation with him to grasp his resentment and frustration and the fear for—false or not—family, property and community that underlies the struggle.

These are serious matters, and not just to Birbach and the many other Americans everywhere who feel threatened by social change and overwhelmed by impersonal government. Housing authorities and other public agencies cannot for long or adequately do their work when it arouses such bitter opposition—and the record of unfunded programs, incomplete projects, and lengthy political struggles is there to prove it. Golar, for instance, points out that the notion that public housing is mostly for poor blacks is effectively delaying or preventing construction of thousands of units for poor whites.

Yet, the dispersal of public and other low-income housing into middle and even high-income areas is one of the few means available to break down the social and economic barriers that create ghettos, with all their social ills. If, for instance, a community insists on maintaining neighborhood schools, rather than using busing to achieve racially balanced schools, can it also insist that it must be protected against incursions by racial minorities or low-income groups? That would be a formula for the perpetuation of the black ghetto, and the ultimate establishment in America of "one nation—divided" on racial lines.

Curbs On Campaign Spending

By Sylvia Porter

Assuming Congress soon passes the first law in U.S. history sharply limiting spending on political campaigns, what would it mean to you, as an individual U.S. citizen?

+ Surely, you would be much more willing to make small contributions toward the campaign of a candidate of your choice—if only because you feel the campaign is no longer so dominated by a few big, "insider" contributions.

+ You also would have a much clearer idea than you have had in the past of the sources of the financial contributions propelling each candidate toward office.

+ You could expect the ceilings on total spending to lead to more creative and imaginative types of TV political programs and other methods of campaigning.

+ You would look for the spending curbs to encourage much wider participation in politics by qualified candidates.

+ You yourself, a politically motivated and ambitious person with ideas, convictions and programs but with only modest campaign funds and only modest expectations from financial backers, could hope to take on a political race and win.

Now moving toward final passage by Congress is a bill that will slap ceilings on today's soaring campaign-spending costs. While details are still being hammered out, it's probable that the legislation will include:

A spending limit of about 10 cents per eligible voter in any candidate's constituency; provision for some effective enforcement procedure or agency; a requirement of full disclosure by all candidates and all parties of the amounts they have spent.

Basically, this new law will repeal the 1925 Corrupt Practices Act which has turned out to be an utter sham in policing or curbing campaign spending. To illustrate: the '68 campaigns at all levels reached a fantastic $300 million, up an almost incredible 50 per cent over '64 and, without ceilings, the costs easily could surge to $500 million in 1972's elections.

What's so fascinating is that never before has there been such widespread or enthusiastic support for controls on political campaign financing. Behind the curbs are: both political parties; groups ranging from Common Cause (the "citizens' lobby") to the private, non-partisan National Committee for an Effective Congress; literally tens of thousands of voter organizations across the land. Last year a Gallup poll revealed that four out of five adults favored campaign-spending limits.

Also giving powerful impetus to a campaign-spending law is the successful class action suit filed last January by Common Cause against the national committees of three political parties (the third being New York's Conservative party) to enjoin them from continuing to violate Federal laws to limit and control spending.

The abuses, said Federal Judge Barrington D. Parker, when issuing his decision on the suit last summer, are "a flagrant and irreparable erosion of the right to an effective vote."

Theoretically, all candidates running for public office must publicly declare the amounts of financial contributions on their behalf. Theoretically, corporations are not permitted to contribute to political candidates. Theoretically, the 1925 law sets specific limits on contributions to and spending by candidates.

The controls, though, have been, in the words of Lyndon B. Johnson, "more loophole than law."

One loophole through which political candidates across the board have been galloping for more than a generation is the provision that only campaign funds spent with the candidate's "knowledge and consent" must be reported. All a candidate need do to slip through that one is leave financial matters to a staff member and claim no direct knowledge of how much money actually came in or went out.

Instead of making direct contributions from corporate coffers to candidates, many corporations simply distribute special bonuses or expense account funds to individual officers with the understanding that they will contribute the extra sums as individuals to candidates. Unions too frequently lend office equipment, public relations services, buy expensive ads in political journals—all ways to make substantial contributions to favored candidates.

(P.S. The Republicans have spent more than the Democrats in all but one Presidential election campaign during the past four decades—but have lost seven and won only three. As the American Enterprise Institute puts it: "Fat cats are less important in affecting the outcome of elections than is sometimes assumed.")

Penelec Plans New Grid For Power Distribution

Pennsylvania Electric Company's generation and transmission facilities will be connected to an 18-computer system that will represent the largest inter-company, integrated control network to be dedicated for use by the power industry.

The new system was announced by Penelec and its parent organization, General Public Utilities Corp.

GPU President William G. Kuhns said the computer control network will permit GPU's operating subsidiaries (Penelec, Metropolitan Edison Co., Jersey Central Power & Light Co. and New Jersey Power & Light Co.) to generate and transmit electricity more economically and will enable the System to use its transmission network more efficiently during times of emergency.

In addition, he said, the computer control network will "add a new, higher level of reliability to the operation of our power system." The network will be spread over parts of GPU's service areas in Pennsylvania and New Jersey.

Mr. Kuhns said that, beginning in 1972, the computer setup will order power from the most economical of 28 controlled generators and monitor its movement along the GPU System's 1,500 miles of high-voltage transmission lines.

"Also, the computers will monitor the operation of generators every two seconds—and lines every 30 seconds—and tell us, moment to moment, which lines are able to carry extra power," he noted.

"Thus, we will be able to get better use of our transmission lines in times of emergency. In short, we will be able to do more with what we have."

Primary control of the computer network will be centered in a new building in Reading, Pa., where GPU's present dispatching and computing headquarters will be located.

Mr. Kuhns noted that the new system will be tied into that of the Pennsylvania-New Jersey-Maryland Interconnection (PJM), which oversees power generation and delivery for 12 companies, including those of the GPU System, in the Mid-Atlantic States area.

A Preseason Look

PAUL HOFFMAN

A 21-6 record, the Gator Bowl Tourney championship and a third-place finish in the National Invitational Tourney make for a successful season and pretty hard to top the next time around—but that's what Coach Larry Weise will be out to do when his St. Bonaventure University team opens its 1971-72 basketball season Dec. 7 at home against Thomas More.

Leading the Bonnies this year will be Paul Hoffman, a 6-1 senior guard who averaged 15.4 points per game. A starter for two years, Weise calls him the team's most consistent player.

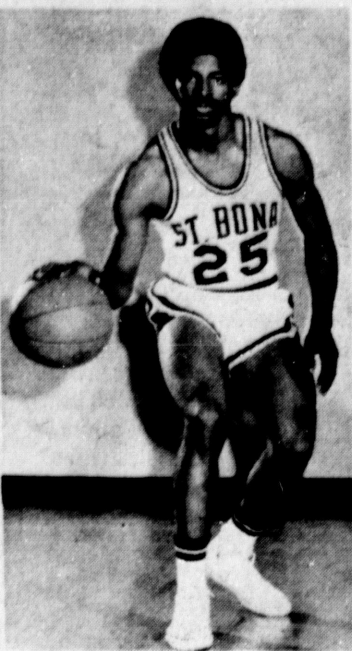

Rebounding strength will be provided by Matt Gnat, at 6-5. Gnat, sidelined briefly with an injury last year, averaged 11.9 points and ten rebounds per game. Another returning starter is 6-4 forward Carl Jackson, the Bonnies' third leading scorer (14.1) and rebounder. Once around the basket, according to Weise,

MATT GANT

Jackson is extremely tough to contain. Expected to draw a starting assignment this season is the St. Bonaventure's number six man of a year ago—Vic Thomas. A good ball handler, Thomas, at 6-3, will probably be teamed with Hoffman in the backcourt.

Figuring largely in the Bonnies' basketball fortunes is 6-9 sophomore center Glenn Price. The addition of Price, who led the freshmen squad in scoring (28) and rebounding (15) should allow Gnat to return to a forward position, where he played two years ago when Bob Lanier filled the middle. Rapid development by the sophomore could produce a great rebounding front-line of Gnat, Jackson and Price.

Weise feels a player to watch is guard Rick Murray, who was second to Price in scoring for the freshmen. Other members of the squad are Jim Wallace, Bill Klepper, Mike Mayurnik, Tom Baldwin, Wally Shafer, Bill Jenkins and Joe Sabol, the only player under six feet, at 5-7.

Gone from this year's team are Greg Gary, the leading scorer and rebounder, the fourth top scorer—guard Dale Tepas, and Paul Gry.

The Bonnies' final loss last year came in the third round of the NIT, a 76-71 decision to Georgia Tech. They came back to close out their season with a 92-88 win over Duke—in overtime.

At St. Bonaventure

St. Bonaventure, through 27 games, averaged 81.1 points per game, while permitting 71.1. They also held a slight edge in rebounding, hauling down 1134 to their opponents' 1104.

Dragons Will Have 19 Lettermen In '72

By DAVID PIRILLO

Rehashing a football season can be old stuff to read as well as write. What can you say about a football team that went 5-4 in its recently completed campaign? There are only so many adjectives and superlatives that justly need to be inserted in the story, and any more, if any, tend to pad and blow the story out of proportion and lessen the value to those concerned and the general reader.

This is the rule of thumb a writer takes, or should, when objectively trying to account the most important and newsworthy aspects of the material at his disposal.

The school in mind with the 5-4 record is right here in this fair community of nearly 13,000 people. That's right, it's the Dragons that are being discussed now and through the balance of this article.

In order to explain the difference in the Dragons' 5-4 record and what could have been, the Bradford and Franklin games, both losses on Warren's chart, should be singled out. The first game of the year Warren lost by two points to the Owls (8-6), while in the eighth game of the season, the biggest and most important confrontation of the year, the Dragons released a 14-point lead and found themselves on the short end of the stick, 24-20, a total of a touchdown in point value in two games.

Warren led Bradford 6-0 for the first quarter, lost the lead in the second period, but came down to inside the 20 twice, once at the beginning of the third period and the other at the onset of the fourth. One play could have made the difference in this game for the Dragons, but they weren't to get it. In the third period, Coach Toby Shea's reluctance to call on his untested field goal specialist for a trial deep inside Owl territory instead chose to pass on fourth down could have made the difference, especially when the pass failed. When Rob Young was sacked on the extra points attempt was a contributing factor. If the Dragons would have, and it's second-guessing, been afforded a positive factor of all the above instances mentioned, then Warren would have been 6-3 at season's end.

Seven weeks later and a bit wiser, Warren made a valiant stand in its fight with the Franklin Knights for the right to the Section II title, Eastern Division of the Northwest Football Conference and possibly the whole conference title. It failed, but here, too, by less than a touchdown.

A couple of fumbles inside Franklin territory stunted Warren drives and directly led to two scoring thrusts by the hometown favorites—Franklin. A matter of a break here coupled with a break in Bradford makes the difference in a 7-2, an impressive log in anybody's annals, and a record barely over .500.

This isn't an alibi for Warren or Coach Shea, it's a fact. Nobody ever won games weeks after they're played, but memories erode in time the manner of how closely contested some games were slips away and the record is left to stand coldly in honor or vice-versa of that particular year.

Next year at this time, people could very well applaud and rave over the 1972 season the Dragons withstood; it won't be by a mere chance or waiting for a couple of those breaks that didn't come the year before. 1972 might be the next year that we've been waiting for so long, since back in 1958—the last time Warren was figured in on post-season laurels.

Warren fans hope so and so does the coaching staff. Nineteen lettermen are counted on to return to the flock and the herder, gone are the likes of reliable Fred Martin at one tackle and Chris Sirianni at the other. Gone are Andy Lucks from center and Peter Salerno at the guard position. No more will Jim Stromdahl, and his 436 yards and 5.1 average per carry, be relied on. It's true that a good portion of the line's departing, but...

Toby Shea's thinking, if he can come up with two tackles that show somewhere near the ability of his tackles this year, then he may be in business. Dave Dunn, a standout guard, will be back. One of the best linemen in northwestern Pennsylvania, his absence on the Northwest Football Conference first or second all-star teams, along with Martin, forced Coach Shea to exclaim that the all-star system is "a farce." That's how highly Shea thinks of his premier guard and tackle.

Mike Piehuta, probably the most sure-handed individual in Warren since the days of Dick Thompson and Bob Arnold in the mid-60s, will return to the split end slot again, a position he nearly mastered this year in snagging 19 passes (three for touchdowns) for 261 yards and 15.7 yards per reception. Don Trubic, a steady improvement from the start of the first day's practice, will be back next year at tight end with a constant competitor in Dave Mervine, who showed when Trubic was limp in the latter part of the year, that he should be considered a prospect to fit in either at end or somewhere on the line. And, of course, nobody's discounting the many pluses that Jeff Myers brings back next fall in an effort for his third varsity letter at defensive end, where he's a gem, and alternating on offense with Piehuta. Myers caught one TD pass, in Bradford, and was credited with seven receptions all season for 78 yards or 11.15 a catch.

Fabled Lou Hanna once said that you'll lose one or two ball games with a sophomore quarterback, and that's no discredit aimed at Rob Young. Hanna meant that the inexperience of the sophomore clearly shows in some dire situations.

Shea realized that when he handed the responsibility to Young at the season's onset, but he's now in a position where he can say, hopefully, that he'll have a veteran quarterback, barring any unfortunate injury, for the next two years.

Overall, Rob was no disappointment; his records will testify. In heaving the ball on 102 occasions, Young zeroed in on the receiver 42 times for a respectable 41 per cent and 5.7 yards per completion; this is not forgetting the seven touchdown passes that found the mark.

Shea's face reflects a cinema screen when he talks of Young and Piehuta next season. "Why," Shea said, "if those two worked together this summer on their own patterns, there would be no telling what they could do as a team next year." As a point of interest, Rob threw more TDs and just five less completions than his brother, Craig, did last fall.

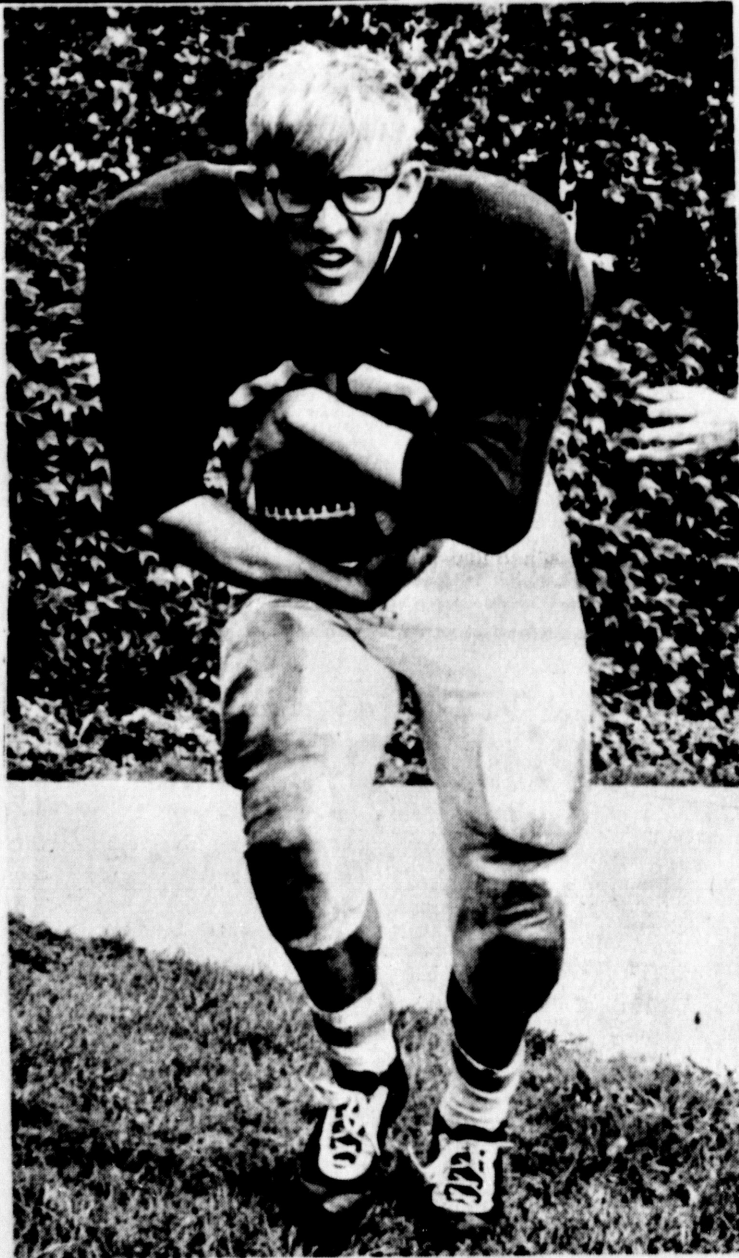

Saving the best for last, there's the return of Tom Bright. The quick, strong tailback won't lie back on this year's laurels. There's records to be broken, one of which he came so close to breaking—Dan O'Neil's scoring record of 16 touchdowns, two more than Bright.

The Northwest Conference All-Star's name was splashed in nearly every paper in the conference's region, as he breached defenses for 1008 yards in only 155 carries for an awakening figure of 6.1 yards each carry. This is well over half of the yards, 1625, the Warrenites gathered as a team.

In back of those line mules—Martin, Dunn, Lucks, Salerno and Sirianni—Tom had at least five games over 100 yards. In the 33-8 bashing of Corry, Bright scored twice and compiled 116 yards rushing; in the next week he romped through the surprised Greenville Trojans in a 24-6 rout for 101 yards and another TD. After the lashing Warren took in Oil City, 24-0, Bright escorted victory to the Dragons' doorsteps in galloping over 167 yards in a reassuring 28-20 conquest of Warren's biggest nemesis—Titusville. Even when the Dragons were panted in Jamestown, 27-7, he had nearly or slightly over the century mark rushing.

In Franklin, 167 yards of Warren's total and two touchdowns were Bright's. On a 62-yard gallop in the Meadville game, Bright registered his fifth touchdown of over half the distance of the field. It was just his night, scampering for 200 yards in 13 carries, and his teammates benefitted in one final winning gesture, 28-0.

When he comes back next year, he needs to attain some 1200 yards to break Dan O'Neil's scholastic rushing

A BRIGHT SPOT

Tom Bright is one of the many key figures that will return to the Dragons next fall. Some of his accomplishments in this, his junior, year are: Over 1000 yards rushing; 14 touchdowns; five touchdowns of over 50 yards.

Wrigley Foils Second-Guessers: Rehires Cubs' Leo Durocher

CHICAGO (AP) — Doughty Leo Durocher, who reached the usual retirement age of 65 last summer, was rehired Thursday as manager for 1972 by the Chicago Cubs.

It gave "Leo the Lip" the last laugh in a flurry of recent rumors that he would be abandoned by Cub owner Phil Wrigley.

The foremost rumor centered on one of Leo's cronies of the old

New York Giants, Whitey Lockman.

Even Ernie Banks, "Mr. Cub," hobbled the last few seasons with a bad knee, was mentioned prominently in a rumor which Wrigley quelled last month, announcing that Banks was too nice a guy for the job as manager.

"Ernie has such a beautiful reputation in baseball, it would be a shame to ruin it by making him a manager," said the 76-year-old chewing-gum magnate.

Durocher failed to bring the Cubs a pennant in six years as pilot, compiling a 430-379 record in that time. Last year, the team folded to a share of third place in the National League East with 83-79.

The oust Durocher cry became so loud that Wrigley, on Sept. 3, used a large paid advertisement in Chicago newspapers to tell fans and critics that the "dumb Durocher" clique might as well give up.

Wrigley, at the same time, warned that any Cub players balking under Durocher's leadership would be found in "happier homes" this winter.

"This year, there has been a constant campaign to dump Durocher," Wrigley said. "It even affected the players. But there has to be someone in charge on the field to make the final decisions; and, right or wrong, that's it.

"If only we could find more team players like Ernie Banks," said Wrigley in a P.S. to his ad.

Wrigley and John Holland, vice president, met secretly in Chicago Thursday with Durocher, who has been "sitting it out" in Arizona while the rumors spun.

Leo immediately went into hiding, and the Cubs said he would be unavailable until a news conference at Wrigley Field Friday morning.

Previously, Wrigley said: "From my unexpert opinion, after studying all sorts of figures from the National League, as well as our own, I'm convinced the Cubs had no right to win the pennant last season... We just weren't good enough."

Before taking their action on Durocher, the Cubs cleaned out Leo's coaching staff, helping to create more rumors.

They hired, as pitching coach, Larry Jansen, an 11-year member of the San Francisco staff and one-time hurling ace for Durocher. Cut loose was Harry "Peanuts" Lowery. They placed Al Spangler in their farm system as a manager.

Then Joey Amalfitano, another Durocher coach, resigned to join the Giants.

The Cubs Thursday completed the 1972 corps by naming Pete Reiser as third-base coach and confirming that Banks will be first-base coach. Banks can be activated as a player-coach after May 15.

Q.V. Lowe, 26, was elevated from the San Antonio farm to be bullpen coach and batting practice pitcher.

Reiser was a Cub coach from 1966 to 1969 when he left to join San Francisco.

POTPOURRI

Well, we're coming down to the wire on the bear season and those hunters who have been anticipating tremendous pleasures for the past twenty-four months will be taking to the fields and forests. That their extended spell of anticipation has not been in vain will undoubtedly be amply proven as the prospects of a good harvest are abundant.

Yep, there's plenty of bear if one can accept the bear sign to be found on almost any hardwood ridge and the reports of sightings by residents of rural areas in almost every section of the county is to be considered indicative.

What the bear hunter will have to consider, though, in hunting this species is that he is up against an animal that is tough as boiled owl meat and has the stamina of an ox. This the experienced hunter already knows, the inexperienced will do well to take advice or learn the hard way.

It takes a well-placed shot to down a bear, and anything but a well-placed shot will quickly deny the bruin hunter of his chance to lug home a trophy. For this reason it is well to consider the shocking power of the bullet being used. A slug that will drop a deer in its tracks will only annoy a full-grown bear. And a wounded bear can be a very dangerous animal.

Approaching a downed bear is another thing. From a personal experience I had in Potter County several years ago I can state that before getting close enough to determine a bear is dead—make certain he is dead. Otherwise, you'll be scared out of your shoes if a swipe of the bear's paw doesn't accomplish the shoe removal bit before you can realize there is still some life in the heaped up pile of fur.

But of course every outdoorsman isn't going bear hunting. Unless conditions change considerably, there'll be a lot of them scattered along the Ole Allegheny all the way from Tionesta to the Kinzua Dam tailwaters. For with every passing year the number of persons taking to the river after the first few frosts, and staying right along with the winter fishing sport through to minus-zero weather, is increasing considerably.

Which reminds me that when year around trout fishing gets under way at the dam's tailwaters on January 1, the Corps of Engineers expect to have the place in useable shape. Ed McCabe tells me that he expects to open the gate on the Route 59 side somewhere around December 15, and Jack Ewers has informed me that he has made provisions to have his crew keep the road and parking area cleared of snow to the best extent possible.

Ed wants to get the fishermen in to their hot spot as much as the fishermen want to get there, but with heavy equipment moving around the closed gate has been necessary. And the gate will have to be closed again for a week or two this spring so that the parking lot of the new recreation complex can be paved and the area readied for the public.

Which also reminds me that Jack Ewers, Kinzua Dam manager, has asked me to warn fishermen that on November 22-23, and possibly on the 24th, river levels are likely to fluctuate between six inches and a foot at times. The reason being that an inspection of the dam's gates will be underway. This is an annual chore.

And sportsmen should be reminded that again this year, for the 9th year in a row, the Lion's Club of Sheffield will be putting on their famous pancake breakfast for deer hunters. Doors will open at 4 a.m. on November 29 and breakfast will be served on through to the starting hour. All you can eat for a $1.25 of the best grub this side of Kiondike.

And by the way, has anybody tried to count the flocks of geese that have been travelling the river southward over the past couple weeks? And did any local hunters get shooting when some of the flocks became confused by fog and landed in local fields? And, so long as we're on the subject of migratory fowl, why do most of the southbound ducks choose to stick to the river within Warren borough where shooting is prohibited?

Rob Ingols Named For League Honor

The Crawford County All-League first and second teams have been announced, and Youngville's Robin Ingols was the only Eagle to earn a berth on the starting unit being named to a defensive halfback position.

Second team defensive recognition for the Eagle went to Bob Graham, end, and Randy Peterson at middle guard. Honorable mention was accorded Bill Kibbey, Denny Howe, Art Ward and John Blum.

Ingols was also named to the second team offensive unit at his end spot, along with three other Eagles—Peterson, tackle, Jack Sweetland, center; and Byron Baker, quarterback. Offensive honorable mention was given to Dan Alexander, Alan Galbraith, Howe and Ward.

Five players were named to both the offense and defensive first teams, led by unanimous choice Tom Bahurinsky of Saegertown. Bahurinsky was selected as a halfback and linebacker. Tackles Kevin McBride of Conneaut Valley and Dale Turner of Randolph held down the spots on both units, with Wray Beiter, Randolph, and Brad Phillips of Townville grabbing offensive guard and defensive linebacker positions.

Randolph led the first team selections, placing seven players. Townville followed with five, Cambridge Springs and league champion Conneaut Valley had three, Saegertown and Union City placed two each and Venango Christian and Youngville had one representative each.

WPIAL Championships

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Penn Hills meets Kiski Area Friday night for the right to play Thomas Jefferson in the WPIAL Class AA football championship. Penn Hills takes a 9-1 record into the game at Latrobe, while Kiski, last year's runner-up, is 10-0.

Thomas Jefferson, 9-0, was awarded a bye and an automatic berth in the Nov. 27 title game at Pitt Stadium.

In Class A playoffs Friday night, Albert Gallatin plays Turkey Hunters.

Take Notice

Turkeys may be shot throughout Warren County until Saturday. Saturday is the last day of the season in those areas of Warren County that lie west of a line paralleling Route 62 south from the New York State line until it reaches the Allegheny River, thence southwesterly along the river to the southern county line.

Turkeys may be taken in the county lands east of that line on Wednesday, Nov. 24, through Saturday, Nov. 27. No turkeys may be taken during the two-day bear season on Nov. 22-23.

IN POSSIBLE BOWL MATCH-UPS

Nittany Lions May Accept Cotton Bid With Texas

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Notre Dame declared itself out of the post-season game of musical chairs Thursday as pieces began falling into place—unofficially—in the major college football bowls.

Under National Collegiate Athletic Association rules, promoters aren't permitted to contact teams until 6 p.m. Saturday, local time, in the area the team is playing.

Nevertheless, phones have been jangling all over the country for a week, and some of the big bowls are reportedly set.

According to best inside information, they stack up this way:

ROSE BOWL (Jan. 1)—Michigan (10-0) vs. Stanford (7-3).
ORANGE BOWL (Jan. 1)—Nebraska (10-0) vs. Alabama (10-0).

SUGAR BOWL (Jan. 1)—Klaha (9-0) vs. Auburn (9-0).

COTTON BOWL (Jan. 1)—Texas (7-2) vs. Penn State (9-0).

GATOR BOWL (Dec. 31)—Georgia (9-1) vs. Arkansas (7-2-1).

BLUEBONNET BOWL (Dec. 31)—Colorado (8-2) vs. Houston (7-2).

FIESTA BOWL (Dec. 27)—Arizona State (8-1) vs. Florida State (6-3).

LIBERTY BOWL (Dec. 20)—Tennessee (6-2) vs. Air Force (6-3).

TANGERINE BOWL (Dec. 28)—Toledo (10-0) vs. Richmond (4-5) or William & Mary (5-5).

PEACH BOWL — North Carolina (8-2) vs. Mississippi (8-2).

Announcement that the Fighting Irish, who for years maintained a firm no-bowl attitude, would sit this one out came from Coach Ara Parseghian in South Bend, Ind.

The coach said he took a sounding of the players and they voted against bowl participation. The Irish this year failed to measure up to expectations, losing to Southern California 28-14 and squeaking past several other teams which they are supposed to overpower.

The Irish also have a tough game coming up Saturday night in Baton Rouge, La., against Louisiana State. Notre Dame lost to Texas in the Cotton Bowl Jan. 1, 1970 but came back to beat the previously unbeaten Longhorns Jan. 1, 1971.

As usual the four big bowls—

Orange, Sugar, Cotton and Rose—will bring into action six teams unbeaten at the present time.

Thus, the national championship may hinge on the Jan. 1 contests, as was the case last year when Nebraska, 17-12 winner over Louisiana State in the Orange Bowl, won the title when Notre Dame beat defending champion Texas in the Cotton Bowl and Ohio State fell before Stanford in the Orange Bowl.

Bob Devaney of Nebraska, the country's winningest football coach, has been bidding his time for another shot at Alabama since the Crimson Tide beat his Cornhuskers in the Orange Bowl 39-28 in 1966 and repeated in the Sugar Bowl in 1967 by 34-7.

Coach Bear Bryant of Alabama, with one of his best squads, has a fondness for the Orange Bowl.

The national title could be decided in the Orange and Sugar Bowls, with Michigan, now No. 3 in the AP poll, in position to stake a claim with a triumph in the Rose Bowl.

NEW YORK— Even the nonvoting kibitzers in the Baseball Writers Association usually succumb to temptation and prepare in advance to second-guess the duly appointed committees of 24 in elections for the most valuable player in each league. The only time they refrain is when their choices are so obvious as to preclude debate or argument.

It is unlikely that there will be even one critical blast delivered at the naming yesterday of Vida Blue of the Oakland Athletics as the M.V.P. in the American League. He clearly deserved the distinction and yet there are intriguing facets to his selection that set it apart from most of the others.

There have been times in the recent past when a Frank Robinson or a Carl Yastrzemski, triple crown winners both, or a Denny McLain, a 31-game pitcher, are such dominating figures that it is no contest. But there was no such stick-out in the American League last season. The normal thought process of any selector, official or unofficial, is to look first to the hitters and then a reluctant look at the pitchers. When I did this, I found it quite disconcerting.

The American League hitters are not an impressive group and are decidedly inferior in both power and average to the Nationals. Although the championship team will offer a prime candidate more often than not, the strength of the Baltimore Orioles was concentrated in their four 20-game winners, who automatically negated each other. So sights had to be raised to more distant horizons and the area of the Golden Gate hove into view. When it comes to distance, Oakland qualifies.

So does Vida. The one disturbing thing about this 22-year-old wonder was that he had such a peculiar season. He had won 17 games and averaged more than a strike out an inning by the time of the All-Star interval in mid-July. But all the stresses and strains avalanched over him so swiftly and so implacably after that dividing line that he couldn't be himself any more. And when Vida really wasn't himself he posted a 7-5 record over the second half for an over-all total of 24-8.

Yet Vida's strange split season could not obscure his value to his team. He gave the Athletics such early momentum that they coasted to the biggest lead and easiest divisional victory in either league. The Oakland won by the monstrous margin of 16 games.

Until Vida arrived on the scene the Athletics were as obscure a baseball team as has been around in ages. They had little identity and no following. Charlie Finley had arbitrarily uprooted them from Kansas City and defiantly planted them across the bay from the San Francisco Giants, ruining Giant attendance and not especially helping his own.

But Vida did more than restore self-respect to his teammates. He began drawing crowds, doubling and tripling normal attendance whenever it was his turn to pitch. He contributed excitement and it was contagious. The A's caught fire early and never did let the flame go out until the Orioles extinguished it in the post-season playoffs. Hence Blue was responsible to a major degree for the year-long success of the Oakland. Did this make him most valuable? It would seem so.

Yet only 14 of the 24 committeemen from a dozen American League cities were sufficiently carried away by the Blue heroics to vote him the top spot on their ballots. It should be parenthetically interposed here that Vida's name appeared on every one of the voting slips, the only man to gain such distinction.

It has to seem to me that confusion and doubt assailed those who didn't go for Vida. Sal Bando, Oakland third baseman with a .271 batting average, drew four first-place votes, Frank Robinson, a .281 hitter, drew two and Brooks Robinson, a .272 hitter, drew three. Mickey Lolich, a pitcher with 25 victories, got one vote. Interestingly enough, the seventh man on the list, Bobby Murcer of the Yankees, is the first .300 hitter to rate a call. He batted .331.

I have to surmise that this voting table proves something although I also must confess that its significance escapes me. Maybe it is that Vida's challengers are a sorry lot. This observation is bound to make wince that noble executive, Joe Cronin, the president of the American League.

Vida has a fast ball of such a velocity that it makes batters blink. Wait until Charles O. (for owner) Finley sees the curve that Vida is about to fire in his direction. The most underpaid ballplayer extant at an estimated $13,000 per year, the exuberant left-hander now is in a matchless bargaining position.

I don't know whether or not you've ever caught him in a television commercial where all the charisma and glowing personality of this charming young man come sparkling through the tubes. Eyes twinkling, he mischievously says he's going to be in the big money next year. Will the price control system balk him? It's a cinch that Finley will have no choice but to pay him what he's worth. Almost, anyway.

Pirates Add Nine To Spring Roster

The Pittsburgh Pirates announced today the addition of nine new names to their roster, while 11 players from the 1971 roster have been assigned elsewhere.

Veteran pitcher Bob Miller, obtained from San Diego in August of this year, heads the list of newcomers to the roster. Miller appeared in 16 games with the Bucs, winning one of three decisions including three saves and an ERA of 1.29. Two non-roster players of last year, Ramon Hernandez and Charlie Sands also saw action with the Pirates in 1971. The lefty Hernandez did a great job coming out of the bullpen, picking up four saves in his ten appearances.

Sands won the third-string catching job last spring training and stayed with the club the entire year. Originally signed by the Orioles, the husky receiver was with the Yankees for the entire 1967 season.

Carl Taylor, purchased from Kansas City's Omaha club in September, returns to the Pirate roster. Taylor figured in the Dave Giusti trade with the Cardinals in October 1969 following his best year in pro ball when he batted .348.

Hitting sensation Rennie Stennett has been promoted to the roster following his sensational year with Charleston and Pittsburgh. Stennett batted .344 in 80 games at Charleston before being called up to the Pirates. The twenty-year old second baseman hit a lousy .353 in 50 games with the Bucs and his 18 game hitting streak was the longest for a Pirate in 1971.

Chuck Goggin is making his first appearance on the varsity roster. Goggin divided his time with Waterbury and Charleston and batted over .300 at both stops. Originally an infielder, the 26-year old has been converted into a catcher.

Orr Scores Two

Boston (AP) — The Boston Bruins exploded for four third-period goals, including a pair by spectacular Bobby Orr, in a 5-0 National Hockey League victory over the Vancouver Canucks Thursday night.

The high-powered Bruins were frustrated by Vancouver goalie Dune Wilson and the Canucks until John McKenzie broke a scoreless deadlock with his first goal in 13 games midway through the second period.

McKenzie chipped in a pass from Fred Stanfield just 16 seconds after Vancouver's Barry Wilkins was penalized for slashing.

The Bruins turned the game into a rout by taking complete command in the third period.

Orr scored his eighth goal on a long slap shot just 15 seconds after the faceoff. He hiked the count to 3-0 with a 30-foot slap shot in the ninth minute.

Phil Esposito connected for his 14th goal and Stanfield for his first in 12 games as the Bruins outshot the Canucks by a 19-8 margin in the final period.

Boston goalie Eddie Johnston kicked out 22 Vancouver shots in fashioning his first shutout of the season.

Golden Seals Edge Sabres

BUFFALO, N.Y. (AP) — Joey Johnston's second goal of the game with less than two minutes left put the California Golden Seals ahead for good after three ties enroute to a 7-5 National Hockey League victory over the Buffalo Sabres Thursday night.

After Johnston's shot beat Buffalo goalie Roger Crozier with 1:32 left, Wayne Patrick ripped one into an open net for the final margin as the Golden Seals ended a four-game losing streak on their current road swing.

Ernie Hickey put the Golden Seals ahead with the only score of the opening period and they managed to stay in front through a wild, five-goal second period.

Johnston made it 2-0 with a 35-foot shot but the Sabres then came back to tie on goals by

Bob Lanier's 37 Paces Pistons

DETROIT (AP) — A basket by Curtis Rowe and a free throw by Howard Kamives in the final 40 seconds enabled the Detroit Pistons to squeeze past the Phoenix Suns 128-126 Thursday night and snap a three-game National Basketball Association losing streak.

Bob Lanier with 37 points and Jimmy Walker with 29 were the big guns for the Pistons who saw a 13-point slip down to one point in the closing moments before Detroit was able to tag the Suns with their third-straight defeat.

North Stars Nip Penguins

MINNEAPOLIS — ST. PAUL (AP) — Charlie Burns faked a breakaway pass and rammed in the tie-breaking goal at 13:42 of the third period, while Tom Reid contributed three assists to power the Minnesota North Stars to a 4-3 National Hockey League victory over Pittsburgh Thursday night.

Claude Larose, was the other Montreal scorer.

Garry Unger and Gary Sabourin had scored for the Blues in the first and second periods.

LAS VEGAS— This has to be the most critical week of the NFL season so far. In three divisions, the two top contenders meet with first place at stake. In two of the other three, the division lead could change. Only Minnesota in the NFC Central is so much as a full game ahead of its nearest rival.

To add to the confusion, the game between the Dolphins and Colts for leadership in the AFC East is not going to be played in Baltimore — as listed in preseason schedules — but Miami. This makes the Orange Bowl "Rug" a factor. Another will be the reinstallation of Johnny Unitas as the Baltimore QB.

The Colts will have to contain the Dolphin running game so they can force Griese into obvious passing situations and play for the interception. I like the Colt defense but the presence of Miami's wide receiver Paul Warfield as well as the "Rug" makes things even.

All three are evenly-matched games. I figure each as a 20-20 tie, but the odds against that happening are 12,500 to 1. Here are my latest point-spreads to equalize this week's games:

NATIONAL CONFERENCE
Dallas Cowboys pick 'em with Redskins at Washington — How much will Jurgensen improve the Skins? If you auctioned off the players individually, the Cowboys would bring higher prices, but the desire of the over the hill gang evens the game, even if Jurg doesn't.

Detroit Lions pick 'em with the Bears at Chicago — Have the Bears got an invisible 12th man playing on the field with them? Lions' pass rush makes me ill along with Alex Karras, but their offense brings relief.

Minnesota Vikings 10 over Saints at New Orleans — Viking defense will score three times. But give Saints credit for a job well-done.

Cardinals 7 over Philadelphia Eagles at St. Louis — No matter what the final score, the Cardinals have the better team.

San Francisco 49ers pick 'em with Rams at Los Angeles — Odds are 2 to 1 Lance Rentzel and Bruce Taylor have a fight. Odds are even you can't pick the winner of the fight or the winner of the game.

Falcons 3 over Green Bay Packers at Atlanta (Monday Night) — Packers laidown after out-playing Vikings last week in every category except the score. Mental attitude and home field favor Falcons.

AMERICAN CONFERENCE
New York Jets 6 over Bills at Buffalo — Buffalo an 8 to 5 underdog this game but 5 to 1 favorite to make the first draft choice.

Baltimore Colts pick 'em with Dolphins at Miami — Colts have to watch out both for Griese's stutter count and Paul Warfield.

Browns 8 over New England Patriots at Cleveland — Browns will forget internal problems to stay in race for division title. Pat's Jim Plunkett will be football's next superstar.

Bengals 8 over Houston Oilers at Cincinnati — With Virgil Carter back, Cincinnati is better all-round ball club.

Chiefs 14 over Denver Broncos at Kansas City — Pressure is on Chiefs to keep winning to stay in race. Doubtful if new coach can improve Broncos enough to overcome Chief's defense — or Otis Taylor.

Raiders 11 over San Diego Chargers at Oakland — The visitors' tunnel at the Coliseum must be awful scary. Raiders are the best home team in football, also fastest.

INTER-CONFERENCE
New York Giants pick 'em with Steelers at Pittsburgh — Giants' running game hurting, but Taylor evens things by attacking Steeler cornerback Mel Blount.

Stock Market Prices Sink As Early Lead Evaporates

NEW YORK (AP) — Stock market prices sank as an early lead evaporated in Thursday's moderate trading.

The 3:30 p.m. Dow Jones average of 30 industrial stocks dropped 6.79 to 815.35. At one point it was ahead more than 3 points.

Some analysts noted most investors were staying away from the market because of concern about Phase 2 of President Nixon's economic policies and the international monetary situation. They noted because of this the bargain hunting which prompted the early upswing dried up.

One analyst said the market experienced its disappointment with corporate profit expectations Thursday in its negative response to mortgage investment issues.

An official of Continental Mortgage Investors said his company expected its earnings to fall short of year ago levels. The official blamed the decline on the great proliferation of new real estate investment-trust organizations. Analysts noted investors feared the earnings slowdown would be industry wide.

Mortgage investment stocks declined sharply in response to the prediction, occupying a large percentage of the most active issues on the American Stock Exchange and also dropping on the New York Stock Exchange.

There were 92 big blocks of 10,000 shares or more traded on the New York Stock Exchange compared with 97 Wednesday. The biggest was 124,600 shares of S. W. Woolworth at 46, off 1. The New York Stock Exchange index of some 1,300 common stocks fell .39 to 50.78. Big Board volume was 13.02 million shares compared with 12.84 million shares Wednesday.

There were 491 advances and 878 declines out of 1,083 issues traded on the Big Board. The market had 9 new yearly highs and 92 new lows.

The Associated Press 60-stock average fell 2.1 to 286.6, with industrials off 2.9, rails off 2.0, and utilities off .3.

American Stock Exchange prices also lost ground. The Amex price-change index slipped .18 to 23.92. Volume was 3.93 million shares compared with 2.84 million shares Wednesday. There were 269 advances and 570 declines out of 1,124 issues traded.

ESC Students Praised For Volunteer Work

The Warren County Mental Health Association president, Nelson Johnson, praised the good response from Edinboro College students to the group's call for volunteer work. Johnson said at the monthly meeting held at 8 p.m. at the Warren YWCA, that five students had begun their orientation at the state hospital and that more were expected to take part in the program.

The association voted to take part in the Health Fair to be held in Sept. 1972 by the Warren County Medical Auxiliary at Crescent Park. Purpose of the Health Fair will be to acquaint people with the many health services available to them. Mrs. John Robertson, director, explained that there will be many displays as well as tests for glaucoma and tuberculosis.

An arrangements committee was appointed by Johnson. It is composed of: Mrs. John Wendell, Mrs. R. Pierson Eaton, Mrs. David Potter, Mrs. David Martin and Mrs. Robert Jones.

Knox Harper, reporting for the association's patient's services committee, said plans are underway for a Post-Holiday party to be held on Jan. 12 at the state hospital for patients from Venango, Clarion, Forest and Warren Counties.

Recently, former hospital patients entertained about 70 members of the Senior Citizens center who had October birthdays.

Harper called attention to the help being given by the Youngsville Lions Club and Mrs. John Donaldson in providing transportation for the patients and former patients.

The association is receiving a warm response from civic groups in Clarion and from the

Christmas Gifts Needed For Rouse Residents

As never before, Christmas is going to be a big affair at the Rouse Home this year; it is home to more people now than ever before. For the Rouse Volunteers, that means more Christmas gifts to collect, wrap and distribute—and they need help.

First of all, they are asking for gifts for the 179 men and women, some of whom are ambulatory, some confined to wheelchairs, and others bed-fast.

Toiletries, sweaters, pajamas, gowns, slips, house dresses, shirts, socks, stockings, and aprons are some suggested items. Clothing should be washable, and preferably of easy-care fabrics. Handcraft kits, tobacco, and games are other ideas. With a little imagination, county residents can think of more.

One volunteer, Miss Cecelia White of Youngsville, offers the thought that many people have on hand gifts they themselves have received but are unable to use because the size or some other feature is inappropriate—and donating the items to the Rouse Home would solve the problem of what to do with them.

She also announces that gift-wrapping will begin on Monday, November 29 in the recreation room at the Rouse Home, at 7:30 p.m., and any persons interested in helping will be welcome to do so.

A continuing need is items suitable for prizes at the bingo games which are a popular activity of the Rouse guests. The prizes can be very modest. Novelty is frequently their most attractive feature.

Contributions can be left at the Rouse Home or delivered to any Rouse Volunteer. Ruth Samuelson will receive any gifts from Sheffield area residents. If arrangements must be made for gifts to be picked up, or additional information is needed, Mr. and Mrs. James Saines can help. Their telephone number is 723-4992. Mr. Saines is the recreation director at the Rouse Home.

One last suggestion: Don't wait until the last minute. It will take a load off the volunteers' minds to know in plenty of time that there will be enough gifts to go round.

Cable Hollow News

By MRS. FLOYD SUMNER
The Ladies Missionary Society of Cable Hollow Evangelical Church held its November meeting at the home of Mrs. Donald Zimmerman with Mrs. Lyle Moore as co-hostess. Officers were elected as follows: Phyllis Clark, president; Carole Zimmerman, vice president; Debra Robson, secretary; Mildred F. Gage, treasurer; Margaret Erickson, prayer secretary; Dorothy Schuyler, activities secretary with Ruth Gray her assistant and Donna North, reporter. Christmas projects were discussed and Mrs. Clifford Cable invited the group to meet with her Dec. 16 to pack boxes for Warren State Hospital patients and shut-ins.

Mrs. Walter Gage held a variety bridal shower at her home last Saturday evening honoring her daughter-in-law, Mrs. Richard T. Gage. Among those present were Mrs. Gage's two daughters, Mrs. Tom Knapp and family and Mrs. Vonnice Cerce and family of Rochester, N.Y. Other guests were Mrs. Mabel Eckberg and daughter, Inez Seastedt; Mrs. Betty Lewis, Mrs. Carole Lewis, Mrs. Mildred T. Gage, Mrs. Myrna Valone, Mrs. Arthur VanOrd and daughters, Marie, Carol and Cindy Lohmes.

A Thanksgiving tureen supper will be held by the Cable Hollow Church at Ackley Grange Hall Saturday, Nov. 20. Each family is to bring a tureen and a pie.

TOLL ROADS HELP

FRANKFORT, Ky. (AP)—A legislative study of Kentucky's toll roads indicates the decision to build the network of turnpikes in the past decade may have been "one of the wisest decisions ever made."

It cited statistics showing that economic benefits to formerly isolated areas are greater than those accruing to cities along interstate highways.

WE'RE NO. ONE

On Monday, November 15, 1971, at 7 p.m. the Tidioute Girls' Basketball Team visited Beaty Junior High School to defend their 1970-71 basketball championship against Warren. Both teams sported identical 6-2 records.

The game, as was expected, was exciting from the beginning until the end. Warren jumped off to an early lead and maintained the lead until late in the third period. When the final buzzer sounded, Tidioute emerged victorious by a score of 40-37. The jubilant girls are county champs for the second consecutive year.

Barb Knight paced the Bulldogs with 20 points followed by Sue Johnson with eight points. Crucial baskets were scored by Merla McAfoose and "Magot" Rondinelli late in the fourth quarter. Other girls scoring were Pam Konkile with 2 points and Carolyn Knight with 4 points. Nancy "Broken Nose" Johnson and Karen Yucha showed great defensive ability

Dance Set Tonight

By JUDY GORFIDA and SANDY BENGSTON

Hi! Do you realize that we only have three more school days until Thanksgiving vacation begins! Everyone at Beaty is really looking forward to it.

The National Junior Honor Society is sponsoring a dance, "Gobble's Waddle," this evening from 7:30 to 10:30 in the cafeteria for all eighth and ninth grade students. The money earned from the dance will be used to buy food baskets for needy families in the Warren area. The price of admission is fifty cents and one can of non-perishable food. We hope to see everyone there tonight.

The second six weeks' grading period ends on November 24. Report cards will be distributed on December 8.

This semester we have two student teachers working in our history department. Mr. Zelechowski is working with Mr. Fulton's ninth grade history classes, and Mr. Brader is assisting Mr. Knopick with his eighth grade classes.

Each day after school our ninth grade varsity basketball team can be seen in the gymnasium practicing very hard under the direction of Mr. Garrett. The team is preparing for its first game on December 7 against the male faculty. Come on, boys, let's beat the teachers this year!

Seventh and eighth grade basketball practice began this week. Mr. Johnson will coach the eighth graders, and Mr. Firestone will work with the seventh graders. Junior High wrestling practice will begin next Monday, November 22, for all interested seventh and eighth grade boys. Mr. Creek and Mr. Shaffer are the coaches.

Beginning on Tuesday, December 13, gymnastics will be offered to any student at Beaty. These sessions will be held every Tuesday and Thursday throughout the winter from 6:00 to 8:00 p.m. Both boys and girls are welcome to attend.

The Citizenship League is now selling "fuzzits." These fuzzy, furry stuffed animals can be seen in the showcase in the new lobby. The cost is $2.25. They would make ideal gifts for your friends for Christmas.

The English Club met and elected a new president, Joan Hofer. Also last year's movies of the picnic at Kinzua were shown at this meeting.

The Drama Club is busy preparing skits and plays for the Christmas assembly.

The seventh grade chorus will give its first performance on November 23 when it entertains the entire seventh grade at an assembly. Mrs. Gick will direct the chorus.

Beaty students are busy exchanging their individual pictures with their friends. Most of the students were very pleased with their pictures. Money for the pictures is due today, November 19. The men from Province Studios will be here on December 2 to retake some pictures and also to take group pictures for the Torch.

Have a happy Thanksgiving vacation!

German Club Seeks Funds

By KATHY FINK and LISA FORD GRADES

The second six weeks has now come to a close and report cards will soon be out.

GERMAN CLUB

The German Club, under the direction of Mr. Dare, is trying to raise funds for buses for Christmas carolers, for a trip to an authentic German restaurant, and for their annual party at Kinzua. Any profits over $500 will be donated to local charities.

Approximately two weeks ago, the German Club held a fall party at Mr. Dare's home, from 3 to 11:30 p.m. The students participated in several activities, including making 30 gallons of cider. The members wish to express their thanks to Mr. Eldon Delong for the 16 bushels of apples he donated for the cider. After a delicious dinner of home-made pizza, with a sauce made by Gayle Marsh, the members enjoyed square dancing and other folk dances.

RUSSIAN CLUB

The Russian Club is attempting to raise funds from the candy sales to finance their annual dinner at the end of the year, to imprint tee-shirts with the Russian Club insignia, and to rent Russian films. The organization holds monthly thirteen dinners, showing slides of Russia for entertainment. Future plans for the club include a pizza party and an Easter egg decorating party.

TEACHERS

WAHS wishes to welcome Mrs. Varella back after an absence of two weeks. Her Spanish classes are meeting on the first floor, because she has a cast on her foot.

Mrs. McClure is in the hospital recovering from an operation. Best wishes to both of these teachers for a speedy recovery.

PHOTOGRAPHS

Monday proved to be an exciting day for juniors and sophomores. School photographs were given out to students.

CLASS PLAY

On November 12, an assembly was held for the student body featuring excerpts from the senior class play. The students enjoyed it very much and are looking forward to the play which is to be performed on November 19 and 20.

GIRL'S BASKETBALL

The WAHS girl's basketball team, under the direction of Coach Wasielewski, encountered Tidioute H.S. on Monday, November 15, at 7 p.m. in the Beaty gymnasium. The game was held to decide this year's district champion.

Although the girls were defeated by a score of 37-40, they played an excellent game. High scores for the team were Hallie Bunk with 17 pts., Mary Brown with 8 pts., and Diane Walker with 5 pts. W.A.H.S. would like to congratulate the girls on a very successful season.

WRESTLING

Under the direction of Coaches Scordo, Chew, Creek, and Shaffer, the wrestling team is looking forward to a successful season. Captains for this year's squad are Dave Lopez and Chris Sirianni, both seniors.

Coach Chew says this year's team is young, but is very talented and enthusiastic and is determined to have a winning season.

Oklahoma, the once-improvised Dust Bowl State, has grown into an agricultural and industrial empire.

Eisenhower Honors 18 Scholars

by Wendy Barton

The Eisenhower chapter of the National Honor Society held its induction ceremony Tuesday night at 7:30 in the auditorium.

Eighteen new members were inducted: Stacey Curry, Nancy Rupczyk, Connie Bauer, Dale Ann Brown, Peter Brunez, Caroline Carlberg, Deborah Grieb, Marla Groves, Carl Johnson, Dan Lemmon, Mara Levinson, Christine Lindell, Michael Luvison, Larry Stanton, Robert Thelin, Coralee Utteg, Carmen Wilcox, and Cheryl Wilson. Membership now includes 51 students.

The ceremony was unique in that the theme was "King Honor and His Knights." Each inductee was knighted as he received his membership card and pin. All members then arose and repeated the Honor Society Pledge. Refreshments were served after the ceremony.

Wednesday morning a breakfast was held in honor of the new members. It was attended by about 50 students and the members of the executive board, which includes Mr. Guthrie, the principal, Mr. Neeze, the assistant principal, and several staff members.

Three finalists have been named in the 25th annual Voice of Democracy Contest sponsored by the Ladies Auxiliary of the Veterans of Foreign Wars.

Named for their speeches on the theme "My Responsibility to Freedom" were Suzanne Bauer, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Bauer, RD 3, Sugar Grove; Nancy Rupczyk, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Rupczyk, RD 1, Sugar Grove, and Christine Carlson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Vincent Carlson, RD 3, Sugar Grove.

Judges were Mr. Clair Cable, Mr. Joseph Crossin, chairman, Mr. William Oelslager, Miss Natalie Perry and Mrs. Lynn Wiltzie, all faculty members. Representing the VFW were Mr. and Mrs. Lindvay.

The winning speeches will be entered in the regional competition; and if winners there, to the district and state competition.

SHEFFIELD HIGH NEWS

Band Groups Select 1971-72 Officers

Elect Officers

The Sheffield High School band, colorguard, and majorettes have elected their officers for the 1971-72 year. Elected were: Susan Cashmere, president; Claudia Christy, vice president; Cindy Hansen, secretary; Marrae Streich & Eileen Jones librarians; Sheila Schuler, treasurer; Eric Swanson, Mark Brush, and Jim Rice, set-up men; Patti Schrader, head majorette; Mariam Sanford, colorguard twirling captain; Susan Wagner, colorguard twirling co-captain.

Two students from the Sheffield High School Band have been selected to attend Senior High District Band. They are Irene Anundson and Dave Swanson. The festival will be held in Saegertown January 20-22.

On Tuesday evening November 16, the band, colorguard, and majorettes held a skating party at the Forest View Roller Rink in Sheffield, from 7-9 p.m. Refreshments were provided.

On Wednesday evening November 17, the band attended a concert at the Warren Area High School. It was presented by the Mansfield State College Wind Ensemble. The ensemble was under the direction of Donald A. Stanley, assistant professor of music at Mansfield State College. The concert was sponsored by the Warren School Music Boosters. It was enjoyed very much by all who attended.

Three students from SHS Band play in the Warren Civic Orchestra when they present a concert on Sunday, November 21, in the Beaty Junior High School Auditorium. They are: Irene Anundson, Laurie Blymiller, and Eileen Jones. The concert is free.

Bowling

The Sheffield High Bowling Club under the direction of Mr. Joe Giordano is opening its third season with about 20 senior high school students in its membership.

The students pay their own way (35 cents for each two games played) for this extracurricular sport held weekly on Thursdays during the eighth period and after school.

Shirley Knight, a junior and new member of the club remarked: "Our bowling has a lot of room for improvement, maybe as the year goes on our forms and scores will improve."

Camera

By Shirley Knight

Getting experience and doing individual work in the taking and developing of photographs was the theme of Monday's camera club meeting attended by 15 students.

Mr. Bruce Smith, faculty advisor for both the club and the yearbook, urged that laboratory sessions be set up to permit students to become familiar with dark room equipment and procedures.

Mr. Smith also reminded members that the club's purpose is more than just to take pictures for the Wolverine yearbook, and that individual students could make pictures for themselves.

The club also supports the news reporting project of the journalism class by taking pictures which are printed weekly in the Warren Times-Mirror and Observer along with the school news.

FHA

By Cindy Hansen

On Wednesday, November 17, after school, the Future Homemakers of America, under the supervision of Mrs. Rita Miller, their advisor, planted 50 tulip bulbs in front of the school in a circle around the flag pole.

Last week, the club sent a Thanksgiving card to Ndekyo Do Musau, a 13 year old orphan girl, it is sponsoring in Kenya, East Africa. Through the Christian Children's Fund, the F.H.A., along with other clubs, is providing $12 a month for Ndekyo's school, clothing, and other necessities of life.

Another project the F.H.A. is working on is the sending of packages to field hospitals in Vietnam.

Youngsville Students Tour Clarion State College

By Janice Jackson and Wendy Barton

Saturday, November 13, was a big day for the Future Teachers of America of Y.H.S. Approximately 25 students, along with supervisors Mr. Herbert and Miss Gerardi, traveled to Clarion State College for the day. Following a tour of the campus, they had lunch in the school cafeteria and then attended the football game between Clarion and Slippery Rock State College. Arriving back at Y.H.S. at 8 o'clock that evening, everyone agreed it had been a most fascinating day.

FRENCH

The French III and IV classes of Y.H.S. had a new experience

Thursday night when they traveled to Allegheny College in Meadville to see a French play. The play, "Le Bourgeois Gentilhomme," was presented by French professional actors.

Both classes have been studying the play for the past few weeks and have found it quite comical and interesting. It was quite an experience for the 11 students that went as they found out how good their French background really was.

SENIOR PLAY

The YHS Super Seniors are at it again!

Thursday afternoon was the first performance of the class play, "The Drunkard." Under the superb direction of Frank Acklin, Carl Campbell set director, and Darlene Wawrejko student director, the play was a great success. During the matinee, the junior high students had a special assembly featuring a professional magician.

Tonight's performance is open to the public. Tickets may be purchased at the door.

Come to the play and see the Super Seniors in action!

CANDY SALE

The Music Department has begun their annual sale of candy. The profits from this sale help to pay for the repair of musical instruments.

Anyone with a "sweet tooth" is asked to see a member of the band or chorus for a box of candy.

View From The Kitchen Window

'To Grandmother's House We Go'

We are going back to Ohio for the Thanksgiving holiday, and already I'm looking at the trip with mixed emotions.

Of course, we'll all be glad to see our family and all the friends we haven't seen since Labor Day, and that will be the good part.

The hard part takes place before we ever step out our door to go. And that's packing for a four-day weekend for seven people, and trying to decide whether to stuff the suitcases, and the five kids, and a guitar into the car; or whether we should just give up, pack all the gear into our camper, and haul it along.

Packing for anything more than an overnight trip for our family is like packing for an African safari. And I can see it all now.

"But, M-u-u-t-h-e-r!", cries our teenaged daughter. "How can I get through the weekend with only those clothes?" Then she points to a suitcase jammed with three pantsuits, two pair of slacks, three sweaters, a dress, and a couple pair of shoes—plus her makeup, hairdryer, electric curlers, and jewelry.

Then, on the other hand, there's my two young boys, who think a couple of pair of pants, underwear changes, and a space rocket is more than enough to see them through the weekend.

And then, there's the problem of my eldest son's ever-present guitar. We have taken that guitar on three-week camping trips, overnight stays, and long weekends. It takes up as much space as another child, and separating him from the instrument is like taking a child from its mother. I think, for this weekend, I'll see if he can be satisfied with his harmonica and kazoo.

The trip takes five and a half hours going, and about five hours coming back. That's because we'll be leaving in the late afternoon Wednesday, and since the kids will all be awake, we have to schedule "R and R" stops every hour or so. Coming home late Sunday, they should be asleep, and the stops are fewer.

Because they'll be awake going over, we have to put in a good stock of comic books, coloring books, candy, and my youngest daughter's sketching material to keep the kids from each others' throats during the trip.

But, I have a feeling it will all be worth it when we get to my mother-in-law's house, and sit down to a Thanksgiving dinner with all the trimmings and stuff ourselves until we can't move.

And, to be back in our full family circle, with all the cousins and nephews and nieces—and their children—somehow makes all the hassle seem worthwhile.

Ann Landers

Answers Your Problems

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Congratulations. It's about time someone said a good word for psychotherapy.

Infantile patterns can be hard to shake. How many men are afraid of their wives the way they were afraid of their mothers? How many women are disappointed in their husbands when they compare them with their fathers? How many sexual problems in marriage—impotence, frigidity and promiscuity—are anger misdirected?

A good therapist does not change your personality—he simply helps you understand yourself. It cannot be done without pain. You can't get tranquility from tranquilizers any more than you can lose weight without experiencing hunger.

The people who scream that psychiatry is quackery are the ones who need it but don't want to subject themselves to the agonizing reappraisal. Maybe happiness can't be bought, but I am spending some hard-earned bread on therapy and it's as close to buying happiness as a person can come. Please quote me.—STRUGGLING IN CHICAGO

DEAR STRUGGLING: Sounds as if you're winning the battle. My heartiest congratulations and my thanks for a superb letter.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I'm a 17-year-old girl with a nutty problem. If you think I've got a screw loose, tell me. I won't be hurt because I think so, too. The problem is that I always feel I am imposing on people, taking up too much of their time—and that they are putting up with me because they don't want to hurt my feelings. For example: Last week I was invited (with a friend) to swim in the pool of a distant relative. We spent about three hours there and had a wonderful time.

The relative asked us to stay for supper. I said I thought we had better go—but my friend begged me to stay and I agreed. We enjoyed the supper but I felt later that we had imposed and overstayed our welcome. Now I have that old guilty feeling and am mad at myself for not using better judgment. Am I nuts?—INSIDE MIRROR

DEAR I.: No, not nuts, just introspective, extremely sensitive to the feelings of others, and perhaps excessively critical of yourself. The best way to deal with this problem is to decide in advance how long you will stay, then stick with the plan. It will reduce the guilt, and it will also make your company more prized than the person who stays too long.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Recently I have read several letters to the editors from sad pet owners, angry with hit-and-run drivers who have killed or injured cats and dogs and left them alongside the street or highway to die.

Please, Ann, inform your extensive readership that often the driver does not know he has hit a living thing. A cat or a dog, or even a child, can unwittingly be pulled under the wheels of a fast-moving truck or trailer because of the suction created by his vehicle. This is called "Bernoulli's Effect" of air movement and pressure.

The pet or the child may not even be careless. He may be patiently waiting at the curb or on the shoulder of the road when a fast-moving truck comes along and sucks the victim under the wheels. So, please, Ann, warn parents to instruct their children about this and urge them to keep pets on a leash or a safe distance from streets or highways where fast-moving vehicles travel.—CONCERNED TEACHER AND PARENT IN THREE RIVERS

DEAR TEACHER: I hope this subject will be discussed at millions of dinner tables tonight. It could mean a life saved. Thanks for writing.

What is French kissing? Is it wrong? Who should set the necking limits—the boy or the girl? Can a shotgun wedding succeed? Read Ann Landers' booklet, "Teen-Age Sex—Ten Ways To Cool It." Send 50 cents in coin and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope.

RECEIVE RITUAL OF AFFIRMATION

The Ritual of Affirmation was bestowed on four new members of the Epsilon Epsilon Chapter of Beta Sigma Phi Wednesday. Pictured above, from the left, are Jeanne Morrison, Barbara Graziano and Millie Wible. Not present for the picture was Diane Kondak. For the program, Mrs. Faye Nicklas, assisted by Mrs. John Steffan, demonstrated making bread dough flowers. The sorority members also gathered food for Thanksgiving baskets to be distributed before Thanksgiving. (Photo—Dorrien)

Rhonda Mahoney Named Asst. Home Economist

MISS MAHONEY

Rhonda M. Mahoney has been appointed to The Pennsylvania State University Cooperative Extension Service as an assistant home economist assigned to Franklin County. Dr. Thomas B. King, associate Extension Service director, who announced the appointment, said Miss Mahoney began her educational duties November 1.

Miss Mahoney prepared for college at St. Gregory High School and received her bachelor of arts degree in home economics from Mercyhurst in 1971. She completed her student teaching assignment at Meadville Senior High School. While in college, she was active in the Women's Athletic Association, yearbook staff, art sales and intramural sports. She was also a member of the art club, day student organization, home economics club and glee club at Mercyhurst and is listed in "Who's Who in American Colleges and Universities."

A 4-H member for 10 years, she is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James J. Mahoney of North East, Pennsylvania. During the summers from 1967-1970 she worked at Paschke's Mums Restaurant, and this summer, was the summer assistant home economist in Warren County.

Miss Mahoney is assigned in the Central Extension Region supervised by Assistant Director Frank B. Zettle. In Franklin County she is associated with Home Economist Mrs. Nancy Hogg; County Agricultural Agent John Shearer, William Reagan, associate county agent and Robert Kessler, assistant county agent. Their offices are located at 191 Franklin Farms Lane in Chambersburg, Pennsylvania.

Thomas Salapeks Celebrate 25 Years

MR. AND MRS. SALAPEK

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Salapek celebrated their 25th wedding anniversary with an open house at their home, 857 Yankee Bush road, Sunday, Nov. 14.

Mrs. Salapek greeted her guests in a blue two-piece dress to which was pinned a red rose corsage, a gift of her children. Mr. Salapek was presented with a boutonniere.

The affair was hosted by the couple's children, Susan, Tom, Jim and Larry Salapek.

The serving table was decorated in the silver motif with two arrangements of blue and white carnations, blue and white mums and silver fern, and a three-tiered anniversary cake topped with the numerals "25".

Mrs. Salapek's sister, Mrs. Lorraine Whiteman, served coffee; her cousin, Mrs. Jean Malack, served the cake; and Mr. Salapek's sister, Mrs. Catherine Freeborough, served the punch. Other aides were Mrs. Jane Conquer, sister of Mr. Salapek, and Mrs. Martha King, aunt of Mrs. Salapek. Lisa Malack handled the guest book.

HOLIDAY RELISH

Start with one cup of juicy chunks of sweet pickled watermelon rind and its syrup (about a 10-ounce jar). Pour this into a larger container with a cover; add ½ cup large pieces or halves of California walnuts, ½ cup canned pineapple chunks and powdered ginger to taste. Stir to blend; cover and refrigerate until chilled. Serve as an accompaniment to any meat or poultry.

James Hubbard Wed In Illinois

Mr. and Mrs. Walter A. Sommerfeld of Lansing, Illinois have announced the marriage of their daughter, Sharon Ann, to James C. Hubbard, son of Mrs. Lewis C. Hubbard of North Warren and the late Mr. Hubbard, on November 13 at Trinity Lutheran Church in Lansing, Illinois.

The attendants were Miss Carol Sommerfeld, sister of the bride, and Captain William G. Crump of Fort Knox, Kentucky. The couple will make their home in Sunnyvale, California.

Truthseekers, Goodwill-Gleaners Meet

The Truthseekers Class and the Goodwill-Gleaners Class from Grace United Methodist Church met in Fellowship Hall to hear Rev. Harold Knappenberger, who gave an interesting character report on "Priscilla", wife of Aquila.

Mrs. Eleanor Mohnkern had devotions on "Keys of the Kingdom of God".

Mrs. Howard Smith, president, told of the Christmas Party to be held December 9 for the children from the Ruth M. Smith Home.

A letter of thanks from Miss Priscilla Wahu, Kenya, Africa, was read and she also told of her work as a missionary.

The social hour was in charge of Mrs. Margaret VanOrd and her committee.

Looking For A Weekend Project? Try Tackling This Popcorn Horn Of Plenty

If you need to conjure up a centerpiece for the holiday dinner table, there's a first class magic-maker in the kitchen - popcorn. Converting popcorn into a creative craft material takes no hocus pocus. Just pop up a batch of popcorn, get out the foil and glue, then, presto - a Popcorn Horn of Plenty.

Inexpensive and easy-to-make, the popcorn cornucopia spilling out artificial (or fresh, if you like) fruits and nuts will turn an ordinary table into an enchanting eating spot. Everyone who gathers at your place will fall under the spell and applaud your cleverness. This popcorn-crafted horn of plenty will also be equally decorative placed on a buffet, hall table or family room chest.

Since the popcorn for your showpiece should be dry-popped, bring Dad and the kids into the act. Get out the long-handled wire mesh hand popper and have them pop the popcorn in the fireplace or even on the outdoor grill (if you have a sheltered corner for it - or a calm, bright day). A covered skillet placed on the kitchen range can also do the popping trick. Just remember you have to dry pop this batch; so use no oil and keep shaking the skillet while the popping is going on.

POPCORN HORN OF PLENTY

Material
Heavy duty aluminum foil, 18 inches wide, 36 inches long.
White craft glue.

Three quarts dry-popped unsalted popcorn.

One can (6 oz.) brown-gold matte finish craft spray paint.
Sharp knife.

Sheet of plastic foam, 18 x 12 x 1 1/2 inches.

One can (6 oz.) moss-green matte finish craft spray paint.
Double-pronged florist pins or straight pins.

Velour fruits (2 red apples, 1 orange, 1 pear, 1 lemon, 1 purple-plum cluster).

One bunch artificial purple grapes.

Wire cutters.
Spool wire.

Wooden craft picks, 3-inch and 6-inch lengths.

Five clusters of artificial nuts.

Autumn leaves, real or artificial.

Dried bearded wheat, natural color.

Procedure

Popcorn Horn of Plenty - Fold foil in half crosswise to make an 18-inch square. Hold lower left-hand corner of foil in place as point of cone. Starting in lower right-hand corner, roll up foil to form a cone. Overlap straight edges about 6 inches and glue together. Mold about 4 inches of pointed end of cone into curved shape of horn. Fold uneven foil edges inside horn so mouth has circular shape and overall length is about 12 inches. Glue popcorn on foil horn to cover entire surface; set aside to dry overnight. Spray horn brown-gold and let dry.

Base - With sharp knife, cut off corners of plastic foam sheet to make oval base. Spray with moss green paint and allow to dry.

Arrangement - Place Popcorn Horn of Plenty at one end

perfect centerpiece for holiday parties of base and secure with florist pins inside. Insert stems of velour fruits and grapes in base in lower center of mouth, making fruits cascade from horn in a crescent shape. Cut stems or wire picks to stems as needed to get desired heights. Fill in with nut clusters, leaves and sprays of wheat.

Combine 1/2 cup sugar and 1 tablespoon cinnamon and sprinkle over all, tossing to coat buttery kernels.
You don't have to be a Mrs. Wizard to cook Cinnamon-Sugar Popcorn or to create a Popcorn Horn of Plenty, but everyone will think you are whenever they taste or see both the very edible and the strictly admirable popcorn confections.

TEMPTING TRIO
A trio of all-time favorites melds in this tasty idea for a holiday hot bread. Start with a one-pound package corn muffin mix; prepare according to directions adding 1/2 cup each of chopped California walnuts and fresh cranberries at the last. Bake as directed; serve warm with pats of butter and a dish of honey.

No special witchcraft is needed to concoct this lip-smackin' popcorn. Simply pour 1/2 cup melted butter over 3 quarts warm, unsalted popped popcorn and toss to mix. (Heat popcorn in a 300-degree oven if it has been popped earlier.)

Ackley Grange Harvest Supper Scheduled For Tonight

Ackley Grange met for their regular meeting Friday with Worthy Master, Lyle Moore, presiding.

Ralph Way reported the hall roof has been painted and a broken window has been replaced.

It was voted to purchase new window shades for the second floor of the hall.

Lecturer, Gertrude Moore, was reported ill.

For the program, a representative from the Department of Forest and Waters showed slides of the C.P.L. Lumber Company. He explained the process of procuring lumber from the tree standing in the forest to the finished product.

Mrs. Earl Sechrist and Mrs. Jefferson Sears served refreshments during the social hour. Next meeting on Friday, Nov. 19, is to be preceded by the annual Harvest Supper. This will be in the form of tureens; also, each family is to bring table service. The Womens Activities Committee is to be in charge of arrangements.

The Ralph Ways are to give their report as delegates to the annual session of Pennsylvania State Grange, held recently in Somerset.

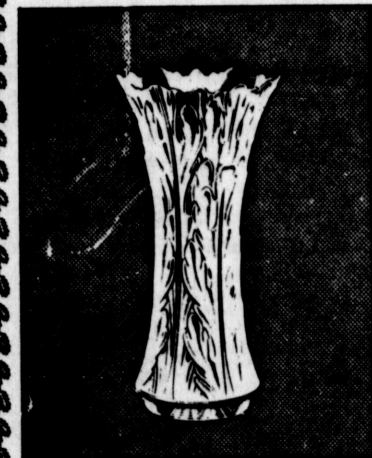

Warren County Seventh Degree Association will meet in the Warren Grange Hall on Saturday, Nov. 27 at 6:30 p.m. Ackley Grange is to provide the program.

Good Holiday Party Fare To Make Ahead

crowd-pleasers at your holiday party

No, you needn't be an expert caterer to create those fancy, finger-sized party sandwiches you've always admired at other peoples' parties but never attempted in your own kitchen. All you need is a fresh loaf of very thin-sliced premium white bread and some of your favorite sandwich fillings and toppers.

Cut the crusts from the bread and gently roll each slice a bit flatter with a rolling pin. This will make the bread easier to roll up, jelly roll fashion. Spread with softened butter or margarine and a filling.

We especially like the filling made with cream cheese, crushed pineapple and shredded chipped beef. You might also try mixtures of mayonnaise, liverwurst and pickle relish or cream cheese, finely chopped pimiento-stuffed olives and mustard. Or, blend softened cream cheese with chopped candied ginger or make a filling of cheese spread - a good sharp Cheddar is best - mixed with butter and bits of cooked, crumbled bacon. There is really no end of possibilities. Just be certain to spread your bread with butter; this will prevent the fillings from soaking into the bread. Roll each slice, wrap in saran or foil and refrigerate for several hours. Once chilled, you can cut each log into six, bite-sized pieces or serve them as is. Garnish with a sprig of water cress or a strip of pimiento if you wish. Very thin-sliced premium white bread boasts all the flavor and goodness of regular white bread, makes dainty sandwich-making easy, but best of all, is low in calories to boot! All the bread in six Whirl-Arounds adds up to fewer than 50 calories. There's something psychological about eating six party sandwiches. Somehow, if you're a woman, you feel you've had your fill. If you're a man, you can eat a dozen without feeling guilty!

Very thin-sliced premium white bread may also be cut into various shapes with cookie cutters and topped with cheese and luncheon meats cut to the same design. This will give you a pleasing variety for your buffet table. They may be wrapped in foil or saran and refrigerated or even frozen. This takes some of the last-minute frenzy out of the holiday whirl.

Petite Whirl-Arounds
8 slices very thin-sliced premium white bread
Butter or margarine, softened
1 cup softened cream cheese or whipped cream cheese

$\frac{3}{4}$  cup chipped beef, shredded
 $\frac{1}{4}$  cup crushed pineapple, drained

Trim crusts from bread and lightly flatten each slice with a rolling pin. Spread each with butter or margarine. Combine cream cheese, chipped beef and pineapple. Spread over bread; roll up jelly roll fashion. Cover with plastic wrap and chill. Cut each roll into 6 pieces. Makes 48 petite sandwiches.

Rev. and Mrs. Stephen Rieder, Missionaries to Korea, are now on furlough and are holding services among Churches of the Nazarene. This will be the Rieder's first furlough since being sent as missionaries in 1967.

Rev. Rieder, at Seoul, Korea, has studied the language at the University, served as Korea Nazarene Mission Treasurer, and served as Principal of Korea Nazarene Bible College.

The missionary service will include an attractive display, a short slide presentation, and a message about Korea and the work there.

Rev. Rieder earned his A.B. degree at Eastern Nazarene College, Quincy, Massachusetts and his B.D. degree at Nazarene Theological Seminary, Kansas City, Missouri. He served as pastor, just prior to the missionary appointment at the Sheridan Church of the Nazarene in Pittsburgh, Pennsylvania.

The Rieders have two children, boys, Ben age 5 and Ron age 3. The family will make their home in Warren, Pennsylvania during their furlough year.

Opening lead: King of ♥

The original opening of the queen of diamonds would have led to the prompt recording of a 500 point profit for East and West against South's contract of five spades doubled, because after the defense cashes out three tricks in that suit, East still must score the ace of clubs.

There is much to be said in favor of a diamond opening, if West takes time to examine the evidence which is readily available from the auction. His partner made a jump raise in hearts originally, promising 13 points in support of that suit. Since West holds all the high cards in hearts and the opponents have contested vigorously in spades, it may be presumed that East's high card strength is located in clubs and diamonds. West has a superior sequence in diamonds which points to the desirability of attacking in that suit.

One final factor is that East's repeated raises as well as South's willingness to sacrifice at such a high level suggests that West's opponent may be void of hearts. Time may therefore be of the essence, while the defense still holds the initiative.

West actually chose to open the king of hearts against five spades doubled and South ruffed with the eight of spades. The ten of spades was overtaken by dummy's jack to lead a club. East followed with the eight and declarer put up the king. When this held the trick, he continued the suit and East was in with the queen of clubs.

A heart was returned and trumped with the nine of spades. A third round of clubs was ruffed with the king of spades and when both the jack and ace of clubs appeared, South's side suit was established. A spade put declarer in with the ace to draw the remaining trump. The nine and six of clubs were cashed on which North discarded two diamonds. A diamond was led to the king and the this lost to East's ace, South had the queen of spades left to ruff the heart return and his losers on the deal were limited to one club and one diamond.

East could have recovered for the defense even after West fails to lead a diamond originally. When the club is led from dummy at trick three, East must put up the queen. This forces South to play the king in order to win the trick and, at the same time, it leaves East with the eight so that he can underplay on the club continuation. West goes in on the second round of clubs with the ten and a diamond switch enables the defense to cash out three more tricks and end up with a 500 point profit instead of an 850 point deficit on the deal.

Your Horoscope

Look in the section in which your birthday comes and find what your outlook is, according to the stars, FOR FRIDAY, NOVEMBER 19, 1971

ARIES (March 21 to April 20) — You may face some stress and strain, but don't let it get you down. Counteract with a just-right blend of seriousness and light-heartedness, and keep plugging toward ultimate aims.

TAURUS (April 21 to May 21) — Do not answer questions or make commitments if you are unsure of your own stand or abilities. There's a tendency to be over-confident now.

GEMINI (May 22 to June 21) — This day awaits YOUR push—hard and straight! Get the jump on at least some projects and you will land in the spirited competitive position you enjoy.

CANCER (June 22 to July 23) — Your stars are not outstandingly auspicious, but you can achieve something real, anyway, IF your efforts are exemplary, representative. Avoid impulsiveness.

LEO (July 24 to Aug. 23) — More than usual activity indicated in certain areas. Bring forth the best in your repertoire and exploit it to the hilt. Don't waste any time on the inconsequential.

VIRGO (Aug. 24 to Sept. 23) — Tighten up loose ends. Don't let the day become emotion-charged. Where possible, stick to routine and don't go off on tangents. Keep order.

LIBRA (Sept. 24 to Oct. 23) — If you take your place among the doers, with spirit and good craftsmanship, you should attain a great deal now. Look ahead!

SCORPIO (Oct. 24 to Nov. 22) — You rarely violate common sense, but there's a tendency now to adopt another's ideas for getting results, completely disregarding consequences. Stop, and think!

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23 to Dec. 21) — You can win new laurels now—if you keep your wits about you and use that bright mind of yours. Try to assist another along the way.

By Frances Drake

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) — Others are watching you now. Don't be hesitant when a helpful decision or some intelligent bit of strategy on your part can spur things along.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) — The position of Uranus indicates a wider scope of interests, possibly greater activity. Don't go to extremes, however. Respond only to offers that really mean something.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to March 20) — Work your way through both pleasant and dreary tasks with equal precision and adroitness. Often the completion of a "dull" chore brings the greatest satisfaction.

YOU BORN TODAY are endowed with keen judgment and analytical ability. Extremely ambitious, you have enough fervor and enthusiasm to reach top goals, though the road may be rough, even staggering in spots. This inner drive aids others about you, too, and you will draw others to you through sheer magnetism, but you must learn to curb stubbornness and inflexibility, which often lead you to extremes. You are capable of heading a large organization, could even lead an army or a great country; could also shine as jurist, diplomat or dramatic actor. Birthdate of: Ferdinand de Lesseps, builder of the Suez Canal; King Charles I, of England; Indira Gandhi, Prime Minister of India.

How to Keep Well

By Dr. T. R. Van Dellen

SEVERE DIZZINESS
True dizziness (vertigo) is a most disagreeable sensation. When the eyes are closed, the individual feels as if he were whirling about in space; when the eyes are open, the world is turning about him. It is unlike ordinary dizziness or fainting, which usually is described as lightheadedness, giddiness, spots before the eyes, or unsteadiness within the head.

Vertigo stems from a disturbance of the centers of equilibrium in the ears or brain. The sensation can be duplicated, for example, by rolling downhill or turning around and around while standing. Overindulgence in alcohol creates the same feeling.

True dizziness develops suddenly and often disappears just as abruptly. When intense, the individual falls. The condition can be associated with severe nausea, vomiting, pallor and sweating.

Disorders of the labyrinth of the ear are the most common causes of this type of dizziness. Various tests are available to determine the origin of the disturbance. Meniere's syndrome is one of the better known forms of labyrinthitis. The attacks come and go, often without warning. The victim suddenly reels and often is pitched to the ground, forward or backward as though hit with a hammer. Dizziness usually lasts a few minutes, but occasionally continues off and on for hours or days. Roaring or ringing occurs in the involved ear and some sufferers become hard of hearing.

Among the popular remedies are hyoscine, promethazine, nicotinic acid, histamine, Dramamine or Mareline. Most of these products quiet the labyrinth and lessen nausea and anxiety. Diuretics and a restricted salt diet also help. When drugs fail to bring relief, there are several surgical procedures that may be suggested. Ultrasonic treatments also have been used especially when the ringing is marked.

TOMORROW: Sprained Ankle.
Questions on medical topics will be answered by mail if stamped, self-addressed envelope accompanies request. VALUE OF SUN

C.P.H. writes: Some people say the sun is good for the skin. Others say it causes cancer. Needless to say, this leaves me confused. Please explain.

REPLY
A reasonable amount of sun is not harmful, but years of overexposure may dry and wrinkle the skin and lead to keratosis (liver spots) and to skin cancer. The light-skinned blond or redhead is particularly susceptible.

TIRED AND GROUCHY
Mrs. D.S.N. writes: Your article on young mothers being tired and grouchy all the time hit the spot. I, too, drink too much coffee and smoke excessively. When I have time, I plan to see my doctor. Do you think the above "vices" are the reasons I move the living room furniture every Friday?

REPLY
By now, we assume, you have seen your physician. What did he suggest? Restlessness could be responsible for rearranging the furniture every week.

TREATING PILES
P.B. writes: Can piles be removed by diathermy?

REPLY
Yes. The electric cautery is used by many surgeons as a substitute for the scalpel. Send stamped, self-addressed envelope for our leaflet on this disorder.

Catholic Daughters Hold Special Mass

More than 30 members of Court De La Roque, Catholic Daughters of America of Sheffield and Clarendon gathered before an altar decorated with appropriate fall flowers for the celebration of the Holy Mass in memory of the deceased members of the court, held at St. Anthony's Church on Thursday, Nov. 11. The Mass was celebrated by Fr. John T. Carter, Chaplain of the Court, and pastor of St. Anthony's and St. Clara's Churches.

Following the Mass, the monthly luncheon dinner was held at St. Paul Center. Hostesses were Mrs. Alex Ross, Mrs. Anthony J. Pellegrino, Miss Irene Richwalsky, and Mrs. Harry Rice.

Mrs. John Yusko, Regent, conducted the business meeting following the dinner. An announcement was read to the court members inviting them to the 48th Birthday Anniversary Dinner held by Court Warren at St. Paul Center on Sunday, Nov. 14. Court De La Roque members will cater the dinner.

It was decided to hold the annual Christmas Party at The Limberlost Restaurant on Thursday, Dec. 9. The committee in charge of arrangements will be Mrs. Raymond Lee, Chairman, Mrs. Ralph Santo, Mrs. Joseph Straneva, and Miss Mary Straneva.

A one-dollar gift exchange will be conducted at the party, and members will also bring gifts for Gannondale. Each member will be contacted by a committee member concerning reservations after plans are completed.

Before adjourning, the members voted to buy a Gift Certificate from the Church Women United of Warren to purchase items for needy persons.

It was noted that the response of members to the "Home-Baked Cookie" Drive for the Warren State Hospital was overwhelming.

Progressive Women

The Sheffield Progressive Woman's Club met on Monday, Nov. 15. The evening's program was given by Mrs. Robert Jones, who gave a talk and showed slides of her recent trip to Tokyo and Hong Kong.

A short business meeting was held at which time the members discussed the new Hospitality Center.

It was also stated that all members are to have all Dan Smith candy orders turned in to Mrs. Mary Jane Streich's home no later than Sunday, Nov. 21. If there is anyone who would like to order candy and has not been contacted, orders can be placed with Mrs. Streich until Nov. 21.

Hostess for the evening was Mrs. Laurence Miley, with Mrs. C. M. Danielson and Mrs. C. D. Pelletreau serving on the committee.

NEEDS A HOME

"Snoopy", a stray dog befriended by Mr. and Mrs. Norman Samuelson, needs a home. Four weeks ago, the Samuelsons found him wandering near their Cherry Grove camp with another dog. They've found a home for him. Their efforts to find Snoopy's owner have been unsuccessful as have their efforts to turn it over to the Humane Society. The Samuelsons also love birds and the combination Brittany Spaniel-English Setter just won't let them near the feeders. The family cat isn't too happy with the competition for affection either. Mrs. Samuelson says he is wonderful with the neighborhood kids. (Photo by Clever)

Hunters' Pancake Feast Scheduled For Nov. 29

The Sheffield Lions Club made final plans for the 10th Annual Pancake Breakfast, scheduled for Monday, Nov. 29, at a dinner meeting held at the Old Fire Hall on Wednesday, Nov. 17. The club will sponsor its annual Pancake Breakfast on the first day of buck deer season Nov. 29, serving from 4 until 8 a.m., with the location this year to be the New Fire Hall.

King Lion Raymond Davidson called the meeting to order at 7 p.m. with 14 members in attendance.

Thanksgiving Trip Tip

There's a lot more to planning a Thanksgiving trip for the holiday ahead than just loading up your car and starting out—at least that's what Chief of Police Bernard L. Winegardner contends.

According to the chief and the International Association of Chiefs of Police, it's equally important that BOTH you and your car are ready for the road.

"You can get yourself ready," Chief Winegardner says, "by getting plenty of rest the night before and by planning a sensible schedule to avoid peak traffic periods. As for your vehicle, have a competent mechanic check out every item of safety equipment—brakes, lights, tires, defroster, windshield wipers and washer."

Another good tip offered by the chief is to keep your eye on the weather. The first winter storms often hit us this time of year. A driver should be prepared to delay his trip if severe weather is predicted.

Chief Winegardner also emphasized the following fact: "Even though our department will be out in full force to help in emergencies, make sure your car's trunk contains a shovel, sand or rock salt, reinforced tire chains, booster cables, tow chains and flares or other emergency lighting equipment."

After all, the chief concluded, these are just good, common sense precautions—whether for a holiday, or just a normal week-day.

GAIN IN STUDENTS
PORTALES, N.M. (AP) — The fall enrollment of 4,298 students at Eastern New Mexico University's Portales campus is the largest in the school's 27-year history, says Registrar Dr. Alfred Woodard.

Skier Talks At PTA Meeting

The Sheffield Elementary PTA met on Wednesday, Nov. 17 with parent-teacher visitation preceding the meeting. An interesting program was presented by Dick Morris, Ski School Director of Peek 'n' Mountain in Youngsville. He was assisted by Craig Dinny.

Herman Ristau, president, led the meeting with Mrs. Gale Fitch, chaplain leading devotions. Plans are being made for the parent-teacher basketball game, scheduled for January 15, 1972.

The possibility of a series of programs on the drug problem was discussed, with Ralph Santo in charge of making the arrangements. If enough interest is shown, these will begin at the February meeting. Mr. and Mrs. Bert Lyle and Mrs. Merle Anderson agreed to help with the publicity.

The home room banner was won by Mrs. Johnson's second grade.

Refreshments were served by the Fourth Grade mothers with Mrs. Jack Haser, Jr., chairman.

Coming Events

The Sheffield V.F.W. Auxiliary will hold their regular monthly meeting on Monday, Nov. 22 at 8 p.m. in the club rooms.

The annual Hunter's Dinner, sponsored by the church societies of St. Anthony and St. Clara Churches, will be held Sunday, Nov. 28, at St. Paul Center, Saybrook. Serving hours will differ from the regular dining hours at the center, being this time from 12:00 noon to 6 p.m. A complete menu will appear in next week's column.

The regular monthly business meeting of the Sheffield Volunteer Fire Department will be held Monday, Nov. 22 at 7 p.m. at the New Fire Hall. Serving on the refreshment committee will be Ray Davidson, Gale Fitch, Seaward French, Ray Hahn and Ed Greenleaf.

Senior Citizen Activities Begin In Medical Center

Senior citizens from the Sheffield area were guests last Tuesday night for open house and dinner in facilities on the lower level of the Sheffield Area Medical Center.

The affair marked the official beginning of Senior Citizen activities in the community center specifically designed for their use and described by the guest speaker as the finest in the state.

Over 115 persons gathered at 4 p.m. for the pre-dinner activities, for dinner at 5 p.m., for entertainment at 6 p.m. and to hear the guest speaker discuss federal funding of senior citizen facilities and the problems of the aging.

Guido J. DiIoreto of Meadville was the guest speaker. He is a specialist on the aging for the Department of Public Welfare. "I have toured a lot of multi-purpose buildings in Pennsylvania designed for senior people," DiIoreto said, "but this is the most beautiful and best planned I have ever seen."

DiIoreto said that because the facilities are exceptional, he was certain Late Start funds would be available from his department to cover operating expenses.

"I know the matching funds are available," he said. "You will be seeing a lot of me because I will be laying the groundwork to get some of these funds for the Sheffield Area Medical Center."

He explained that if the operating funds for the lower level of the medical center actually were $3,000, as estimated, under Late Start, the Dept. of Welfare would match with $1,500 the money provided by the community to meet the obligation.

Speaking for his fellow Senior Citizens, Joseph Pellegrino, 86, said: "I want to thank God we have a place like this to come to. And I thank God that we have people who would provide a place like this for us to come to."

Entertainment after the dinner was provided by Mrs. Dorothy Brooks of Jamestown, N. Y., playing the piano.

The dinner was prepared by members of the Progressive Women's Club and was served by men from the Rotary Club of Sheffield.

The $200,000 facility, which includes suites for a medical doctor and two dentists on the first floor, was dedicated in September.

Clarendon News

By SARAH M. SMITH
The November meeting of the Clarendon Trinity United Methodist Church met in Fellowship Hall Tuesday evening with 14 in attendance. In the absence of the president, the Vice President, Mrs. Emma Miller, took charge of the meeting. Following opening exercises, a short business session was held. Mrs. Madge Morrison gave a report from the District meeting which she had attended at St. Marys.

An item of particular interest was a talk by Mr. Mallory, who had been in Sierra Leone, Africa, for 3 years. Mrs. Shirley Riddle had charge of the program, "Living Through Changes and Beyond Fear". She was assisted by Mrs. Joyce Mead.

A little playlet, "The Computer", was given by Mrs. Madge Morrison, Mrs. Nellie Meddock, Mrs. Shelley Riddle and Mrs. Kay Jones. Madge Morrison conducted the Quiz from Response. A social hour followed with Mrs. Nollinger and Marian Sleeman acting as hostesses.

The Ave Maria Society of St. Clara's and St. Anthony's churches held its regular monthly meeting Nov. 8, beginning with an Installation Mass. Officers installed were: President, Janina Swartz; Vice President, Irene Haser; Secretary, Mary Valone; Treasurer, Mary Jane Richwalsky; Trustees, Dorothy Haumesser, Irene Richwalsky and Josephine Rambish. The coming events of the Society are: Rummage Sale at St. Clara's basement Dec. 3 and 4; Hunter's Dinner (Swiss Steak) November 28 (Public Welcome); Parish Christmas Tureen Dinner, December 12.

The Adolescent State Hospital Party sponsored by the group was held on Monday, Nov. 15.

Firemen Need Toys, Customers For Auction

A reminder that the Sheffield Volunteer Firemen will be holding a Toy Auction this Saturday, Nov. 20 at the social hall of the new fire hall. The auction will begin at 7:30 p.m. and last until approximately 10:00 p.m.

This is only the first of four auctions, which the firemen plan to hold on four consecutive Saturdays, the others being Nov. 27 and Dec. 4 and 11. These will be held at the same time and the same place.

The firemen still need donations of used toys to help make the auction a success. Anyone with used toys in good condition, who would like to give them to the firemen, may contact anyone in the fire department.

Gov. Milton J. Shapp and Revenue Secy. Robert P. Kane accepted shipment early this afternoon on behalf of the Commonwealth of a truckload of 2,000,000 Property Tax Assistance Claim forms. Gov. Shapp signed for the shipment as the truck stood parked in front of the Capitol, at the site of his January inauguration.

The claim forms arrived in a 40-foot Jones' Motor Company tractor-trailer. The Springfield-based motor carrier had brought the 2,000,000, four-page forms to Harrisburg from Philadelphia, where they were printed. The driver of the truck was Robert Foster, of Jones' Motor Company's Harrisburg area terminal.

The Property Tax Assistance Claim forms will be distributed in numerous ways beginning Dec. 1, 1971. The forms will be used by many senior citizens over 65, widows over 50 and disabled persons of all ages to make claim to the Commonwealth for 1971 property tax rebates of up to $200 under the Senior Citizens Property Tax Assistance Act.

Gov. Shapp, when he signed that act into law on March 11, 1971, termed it, "One of the most important measures I could sign in my administration." The act calls for rebates totaling up to $60 million a year, as tax relief for senior citizens, widows and disabled persons of lower household income.

Once the Property Tax Assistance Claim forms are distributed beginning Dec. 1st, those eligible will file the claims with the State Revenue Department's Property Tax Assistance Bureau after Dec. 31, 1971 but not later than April 29, 1972. Director of the Property Tax Assistance Bureau is Abe L. Yablou.

The Revenue Department, after processing what it estimates will be between 500,000 and 600,000 eligible claims, will begin mailing the rebate checks on July 3, 1972. According to the terms of the Senior Citizens Property Tax Assistance Act itself, no payments can be made prior to July of 1972. The program will proceed on a yearly basis thereafter.

Revenue Secretary Kane this morning disclosed that when the Property Tax Assistance

Around Sheffield

The last passenger pigeon in Pennsylvania disappeared in 1906. As a species, the passenger pigeon became extinct on September 1, 1914 when the last one to inhabit this earth died of old age in the Cincinnati Zoological Gardens.

How a species, occurring in such fantastic numbers that flocks of them in flight darkened the sun, could ever have become extinct indicates how precarious is the position that much of our wildlife enjoys today in a world dominated by man.

A flock of passenger pigeons in Kentucky in 1808 was estimated to be made up of 225 billion birds. Perhaps such a figure was a rank exaggeration. But as keen an observer of bird life as Audubon watched a flock of passenger pigeons in 1813 pass overhead in a continuous stream that lasted for three days. The noise from the wing movements of such a gigantic swarm of birds sounded to him like distant thunder.

There were no game laws to protect passenger pigeons. Market hunters converged on their nesting areas, which covered thousands of acres, and slaughtered them in a variety of ways that would be unacceptable today. They choked them with burning sulphur, blinded them at night as they roosted so that they could knock them off the branches with poles, and then shot them. Another method used was to fell the trees in which they were roosting.

Shipped in carloads by rail to New York and Chicago, the birds brought from one to two cents apiece. Human greed and inexcusable waste caused the extinction of the passenger pigeon. Now, a few miles south of Sheffield a historical marker along the highway reminds the speeding tourist that the passenger pigeon once occurred in great numbers around this area.

A stuffed bird can't take the place of the live bird in general appearance of wing coloration.

GRIN AND BEAR IT

"Think of it as an investment, Roscoe! . . . If the conservation people lose their fight, it'll simply be priceless!"

But it can certainly form a definite link with the past. There is a mounted specimen of a passenger pigeon in a bird collection at the Northeastern Forest Experiment Station near Irvine. It was collected near Mayville, N.Y. around 1890 by Ralph Simpson. There is also a stuffed specimen of the extinct Carolina parakeet at the Forest Experiment Station. The Carolina parakeets, which became extinct around 1920, were wiped off the map because of their brilliant plumage. They were so much in demand for cage birds that birdcatchers caused their extinction.

When a species of wildlife becomes extinct, it is gone forever. It joins the woolly mammoth, the pterodactyl, and the great bird-footed monsters of the Age of Reptiles.

Since the year 1600, an estimated 162 species of birds became extinct throughout the world. From the beginning of the Christian Era, it took 1600 years for a total of 10 species of birds to become extinct. But the rate has been stepped up dramatically since the year 1900. Already, 54 species have taken the one-way road to extinction in this century.

Among endangered species of birds, today, can be counted 334 species. They are in danger of extinction largely through man's uncontrolled impact on the environment. The ascendancy of man as the dominant species among over a million other species in the animal kingdom has been a real tragedy for many forms of life that have to compete with him.

ONE MAN'S VIEW

What Should Schools Do?

By Bob Rogge

Considering the fact that the Warren County School District's annual budget is $10 million or so, and remembering all the allegations thrown back and forth during the recent contract disputes between the teachers and the administrative staff; perhaps it is time all of us in Warren County sat back quietly for a few minutes and mentally decide just what we want for our school dollars.

As for ourselves, we have often thought about the things we would like to see incorporated in school systems and some of the things we would like to see dispensed with. Everybody must have done just this same kind of thinking at one time or another.

But—without a single doubt, the greatest thinking on education and what it should mean to everybody that we have ever been privileged to read came from the mind of a young man of twenty-three. We include a few selected phrases and paragraphs from his thinking here because we feel his ideas are just about the finest and most germane to the subject ever put down on paper.

SCHOOLS

"Schools should be the cleanest, prettiest, best-built, most carefully planned and put-together buildings of a society. Schools should be built better and kept up better than banks, because there is a whole lot more wealth in them. . . . But the buildings don't matter as much as the teachers in them, the instructors and professors and coaches. . . . When a civilization pays professors $1,800 a year, and pimps and jockeys and swoon-singers triple and fifty times the dough, then something is likely to go wrong in that civilization, sooner or later."

EDUCATION

"An education should try to teach a man how to think all right, and failing in that, should at least teach him a little humility, and try to get him to open his mind, and keep him cagey about what he takes in, and keep him ever reminded that there are many people of all sorts of blood strains and color phases, all essentially pretty much like him. It should teach him that he is part of mankind. . . .

"An education should give a man the facts about his world. . . . straight. It should tell the little American kids there aren't many bathrooms in Sinkiang, and not enough tooth brushes in Turkey, and not enough honest democratic government in Chicago or Jersey City or the District of Columbia, or any city in any district for that matter. . . .

"An education should give a person some idea of how a society functions, through the dreams and laws and practices and theories of economics. The idea should be spread around that economics is just a hell of a name for the way people live together. . . .

"An education should include a pretty complete mathematical and scientific background, as illuminating and extensive as possible, the best that good teaching and imaginative text writing can dream up, plus a lot of movies, things like Disney's evolution sequence in 'Fantasia.' . . .

"For the other side of it, the literature and the music and the arts and languages, they should give you a shot at the best there is, and not care too much if it doesn't work at first. They should find teachers who are in love with their stuff. . . . teachers who can see some of the magic inside, and open the door for those who cannot see very well at first. . . .

"Education is a lifetime affair, and should be, and could be, and must be a whole lot more so. . . .

"Maybe all education has to be built around two words. . . . Truth and Justice. . . . and maybe if it was, after a long slow time some sort of a half-way decent world could be worked out. . . .

That from the mind of a 23-year old American—written 27 years ago. He was Bert Stiles. He died at the age of 23 on a fighter escort mission over Hanover, Germany on Nov. 26, 1944.

He would have been one of the world's great thinkers had he survived.

Smiles Are Harder To Find In Mainland China Now

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Smiles are harder to find now in mainland China, but food, warm clothes and cheap medicine are more abundant than ever, a noted sociologist reported Thursday after a 28-day visit to China.

"The Chinese people don't smile as much as they once did. There is no time for light-heartedness," said Cantonborn C. K. Yang, a professor of the University of Pittsburgh.

"However," he added, "I would definitely say the vast majority of the people are grateful for the progress that has been made."

On his visit, Yang compared the China he last saw 20 years ago with the China of today.

"I observed none of the starvation and destitution that once existed," he said. "The people have warm clothes, their food is adequate, and the children seem unusually healthy."

He was also impressed by the low cost of medical care.

"Each person pays the equivalent of 30 cents to $1.00 per month in American money and all of his medical problems are taken care of from dental work to major operations," he said.

Yang was among 15 American sociologists who made the trip — the first such group ever invited to the Peoples Republic of China.

"I was informed I had been invited only a few days before the trip was to begin," he said. "It was truly a rare experience and one I could not pass up."

The trip took him to six cities, including his birthplace, Shanghai and Peking. He also visited rural areas, farms, communes and universities.

"I went as a sociologist and made it a point not to ask political questions," he remarked. However, he did tell one anecdote of a conversation with a 13-year-old member of the Red Guard.

"Our first job is to fight imperialism," he said the youth spat out.

"What do you mean by imperialism?" the professor asked.

"Soviet Russia," Yang said was the reply.

"The word United States never came to his mouth through the entire conversation," said Yang.

Regarding rumors about whether Communist Party Chairman Mao Tse-tung was still alive, Yang said, "I did not see Mao, but I believe he is alive."

He had no comment on the status of Lin Biao, Mao's designated successor, who has allegedly been involved in a power struggle.

"I don't know about Lin Biao and I didn't ask," Yang stated.

Yang further stated the Chinese people had greeted their country's entrance into the United Nations with "enthusiasm" and "pride."

"However," he added, "They do not regard it as charity but as a right which has been restored to them."

He also predicted President Nixon would receive a warm welcome on his visit to China.

"They overwhelmed us with an ocean of applause wherever we went," he remarked. "If the President goes into the street, I would say he will meet much more enthusiasm than hostility."

Local Teacher Kiwanis Speaker

Jeff Pace, Warren Area High School teacher who recently spent 10 weeks in Russia on a teacher exchange program, was guest speaker at the Wednesday luncheon meeting of the Warren Kiwanis.

Pace gave a slide-talk presentation on Russia. He studied at Moscow State University and visited Leningrad and Kiev. Russell Hanson was program chairman for the meeting.

Tax Relief To Industry Felt Needed

PITTSBURGH (AP) — The state Secretary of Commerce Thursday predicted the need for taxes at the local, state and federal levels will increase in the future and called for tax relief to industry as a way to generate additional funds.

Walter G. Arader, addressing the closing session of the Pennsylvania Bankers Association's lending conference, said the public has indicated it wants more government services and "appears willing" to pay for them.

But, he added, increased services could only result in the need to generate more taxes in the future.

These tax revenues, he said, could come from taxes on business. But, rather than raising tax rates on business, Arader added, the state should provide tax relief which would in turn generate additional profits for business.

The result, he said, would be increased revenues on a larger profit picture even with reduced rates.

Arader said the tax relief would enable industry to modernize and expand and new business to get started. He said this, in turn, would create new jobs, improve productivity and increase profits.

Arader cited the Pennsylvania Industrial Development Authority as an example of the type of program needed to build up industry through self-generating funds with no expense to the taxpayer.

Co-op Line Superintendent Retires

By FRANCES RHODES
John S. Smith of Pittsfield, line superintendent of Warren Electric Cooperative, Youngsville, retired recently after serving the cooperative since it began operations in 1940. His interest and activities in rural electrification began even earlier, before the federally-organized Rural Electrification Administration had any operations in Pennsylvania. He was a rural electrification pioneer.

SMITH

John Smith grew up on a farm at Black Ash, in Crawford County. With his parents he was involved in the agricultural insurance fraternity, the Farmers Alliance and Industrial Union. His father was state president for 25 years and John also occupied the office for several years. His mother and his wife, Margaret, were state board members. The whole family supported the organization's efforts, with other rural groups, to bring electric service to Pennsylvania farmers through the newly organized REA, in the mid-1930's.

They were involved in the planning and organization of the state's first rural electric cooperative, Northwest, which opened its first office at Saegertown, but now is headquartered at Cambridge Springs, in Crawford county. The second day that Northwest began stringing wire, John Smith went to work there. He remained, as maintenance man, until the Warren cooperative—developing from a superintended the building of more than 2½ times the miles of line the cooperative was originally expected to have to handle, to serve about 6,000 consumers; and he has seen the labor force grow until now the cooperative has two dozen fulltime employees, and provides work for a dozen more under contract for year-around rights-of-way maintenance.

Smith is a member of Youngsville First United Methodist Church, was for many years a justice of the peace at Pittsfield, still is active in the Farmers Alliance and Industrial Union, is a Mason and an Oddfellow, has organized and played drums for area dance bands, and enjoys bowling, gardening, hunting and fishing. Mrs. Smith is a first grade teacher at Youngsville elementary school.

Richard Slagle Named To Succeed Smith

H. Richard Slagle has joined the staff of the Warren Electric Cooperative, Youngsville, as line superintendent, to succeed John S. Smith, who retired recently. Mr. Slagle has a B.A. degree in business administration from Youngstown University, Ohio, and a background of seventeen years in line construction work.

A native of Sharon, Pa., he spent more than 15 years with Pennsylvania Power Company, and two years with Western Illinois Power Cooperative. Immediately prior to coming to Warren County he was associated with a road construction concern in Jacksonville, Illinois.

Slagle's wife, Marianne, a native of Masury, Ohio, is a registered nurse. They have three children, Richard Jr., 12, who has enrolled at Youngsville junior high school, Jill, 11, and Gaye, 8, who attend Irvine elementary school. Mr. and Mrs. Slagle have bought a home on the Old Pittsfield road, and have already associated themselves with the First United Methodist church in Youngsville.

Tidioute Area Man Named To Environmental Dept.

A Tidioute area man is among six key personnel appointed as bureau directors and division chiefs in the Department of Environmental Resources.

Bruce E. Ziegler, 47, of RD 1, Tidioute, former Acting Deputy Secretary, Oil and Gas Division, takes over the post of Chief, Division of Oil and Gas, according to Maurice K. Goddard, Secretary of the Department. The appointment was effective Thursday, Nov. 18.

Dr. Goddard explained that these appointees have been occupying responsible positions within the department although the offices they directed were not titled according to the organizational chart of the new Department of Environmental Resources.

Other appointees are: Edward J. Baier, 46, Mechanicsburg, from Chief, Division of Occupational Health to Director, Bureau of Mine, Occupational Health and Safety; Donald A. Lazarchik, 36, Camp Hill, from Assistant Director, Development and Field Programs, to Director, Bureau of Land Protection and Reclamation.

William Guckert, 63, Pittsburgh, from Director, Bituminous Strip Mine Reclamation, to Chief, Division of Mine Reclamation; William C. Bucciarelli, 47, Hershey, from Chief, Solid Wastes Section, to Chief, Division of Solid Waste Management and Anthony P. Mazza, 62, Harrisburg, from Director, Coal Mine Subsidence Insurance, to Chief, Division of Mine Subsidence Insurance.

Rouse Home Under New Regulations

The Rouse Home in Youngsville, under new regulations, has been reclassified under a new payment system.

Commissioner Thomas J. Donnelly, chairman of the Rouse operation, was advised Thursday, that the county home has been classified as Skilled 1A and is in compliance with the Department of Public Welfare's skilled nursing home standards, has a regular license or is approved and may participate in the Medical Assistance and Public Assistance payment for care programs.

Donnelly said this means the Rouse Home will be eligible to receive payment of $15 a day from DPA as compared to the $11.50 currently paid the local institution.

Every nursing home in the Commonwealth is being reclassified under the new payment system, Skilled 1A being the top classification.

Millcreek Man Faces Possible Life Sentence

ERIE—A Millcreek man has been convicted in Erie County Court on two counts of kidnapping for extortion and faces the possibility of life imprisonment.

A jury returned its verdict Wednesday afternoon against James Russell after three days of testimony and two hours deliberation. President Judge Edward Carney polled jury members for their individual votes, then scheduled sentencing for Dec. 13.

Defense attorneys William Jordan and Dennis Sterret announced later they would file an appeal.

Russell was accused of masterminding the abduction of Mrs. Joseph Kaulis and her 10-year-old son, Richard, from their home at 120 Longacre July 24.

The mother and son were threatened by two men who came to their home while Mr. Kaulis was at work. Mrs. Kaulis was tied up, and one of the men called her husband, the manager of the K-Mart food store at 26th and Peninsula, and demanded $10,000 ransom.

Richard Mallory, of 2710 Peach and Russell's brother, Peter, of Lackawanna, N.Y., were later identified as the pair that entered the Kaulis home. Peter Russell pleaded guilty last week, but Mallory was granted immunity from prosecution after turning state's evidence.

Another defendant, Richard Doolan, of 412 Mohawk, admitted participating in the plot by going to a parking lot to pick up the ransom money.

Damage $550 In Car-Truck Accident

State police of the Warren substation investigated a two-vehicle accident at 7:40 p.m. Wednesday on Route 6 two miles west of Youngsville.

According to police, a truck operated by Leo Davis, 47, of RD 1, Tidioute, backed out of a garage onto the highway but was not visible to an approaching auto driven by Dennis Devore, RD 3, Pittsfield.

Devore, police said, braked to avoid hitting the Davis vehicle, but was unable to stop in time.

Devore sustained a slight cut on his forehead and damage to his car was listed at $550. There was no damage to the truck, police reported.

Mrs. Huber Hospitalized In Oil City

OIL CITY — Mrs. Gerald Huber of Warren, the former Ruth Bielenberg of Oil City, was admitted to Oil City Hospital Tuesday night for injuries received in a one-car accident on Route 62.

Mrs. Huber is the daughter of Rev. and Mrs. Herman Bielenberg of Warren.

Hospital authorities listed her condition Wednesday night as satisfactory. She suffered severe laceration of the forehead, facial contusions and leg lacerations.

State police stated the accident occurred at 7:10 p.m. on Route 62 about one and a half miles north of Oil City, when the Huber car struck a deer. Police estimated damage to the Huber car at $2,000.

Pastor Bielenberg said there were two deer on the highway and his daughter's car left the side of the road and hit a tree. He said one of the deer was killed.

Mrs. Huber was en route to Oil City due to the death of a relative, her father said.

The shoplifter took a quick look around.
Saw nobody watching.
And stuffed a sweater in her handbag.

From his binocular balcony a store detective took it all in. He called his teammate on the floor below. The shoplifter was arrested. And later convicted.

The days when stores were an easy touch for shoplifters are definitely over. It's now a high-risk caper. The odds are decidedly against the shoplifter as the stores now use a wide range of security devices. Everything from one-way mirrors to closed circuit T.V. systems.

Why are we telling you this? Because we want young people to realize what they're getting into. Conviction for shoplifting could mean a criminal record that follows you around for the rest of your life.

It could kill your chances for college or a decent job. Or get you a thumbs-down when you apply for credit or a loan.

And shoplifting also affects people who'd never dream of stealing anything. Because shoplifters don't just steal from stores. Since shoplifters cause higher prices . . . shoplifters take everybody's money.
